Californian Sees Nation From Seat of a Saddle

By DOUG KNEIBERT
Assistant Editor

"If a man can only live out one of his dreams in his lifetime, he's all right. But most of the time we live out someone else's dream."

Jefferson Spivey is living out his dream — although it has had some nightmare qualities as well — by crossing the United States on horseback.

Spivey, 29, passed through Sedalia Sunday, where he spent the night in the yard of the Maynard Ford farm on East Highway 50. He moved on Monday morning toward his goal — Washington, D.C.

The young Californian started out from Santa Barbara, Calif., on April 26, and with luck hopes to make the nation's capital by Nov. 19 — a distance of 3,700 miles. He is traveling light, his most dependable piece of equipment being a 4-year-old Arabian gelding named Mr. Sol, who, after crossing the Mojave desert and losing 120 pounds, is now "back in shape," as Spivey puts it.

Spivey's passion is conservation, and he thought up the idea of crossing the country on horseback to see for himself what he had read in books about how America is destroying its natural heritage.

"I was wondering if it is really as bad as they say; now I think it is worse. It is too late in many places."

Of his home state, Spivey is dismayed by what he sees and pessimistic about the future. "They (Californians) are going too fast, all of our machines are too fast for our minds. We don't have time to think about nature. But man needs nature; without it he may not exist himself," Spivey says.

What will he do once he reaches Washington? Spivey expects to be met by Justice William O. Douglas and Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall, both devout conservationists, and perhaps talk to some groups about what he has seen. He is keeping a log for a book he intends to write.

Of the 14 states he will cross, Missouri has so far been the most conservation-minded, Spivey reports. "Every farmer has a ton of books on conservation; I hope they read them," he says.

Spivey's experiences have literally run hot and cold. He

Ticket of GOP Called 'Racist'

NEW YORK (AP) — Jackie Robinson, quitting as an aide to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, says he'll back any Democrat against Richard M. Nixon. His turnaround highlights the expressed unhappiness of some Negro Republicans with the GOP ticket.

Robinson, 49, who broke the color line in major league baseball, said Sunday that Nixon heads a ticket that is "racist in nature" and that the former vice president "has prostituted himself and sold himself out to the bigots in the South."

By selecting Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew as his running mate, Robinson said, Nixon has handed over control of the party to the Southerners.

The former Brooklyn Dodgers great, who was elected to baseball's Hall of Fame in 1962, declared, "I intend... to support the Democratic nominee, and pray to God that every black man and every minority in this country does the same thing," adding:

"I'm a black man first, an American second and then I will support a political party — third."

He appeared on the NBC-TV program, "Searchlight."

Dissatisfaction with his own party was expressed by one Negro delegate to the GOP convention in Miami Beach, Fla., who commented at a private meeting, "The black voter has generally been disenfranchised with the Republican party for so long that, in order for the GOP to recapture any significant numbers of blacks, they will have to offer far more than they have to date."

Negro Republican resentment against the GOP ticket sometimes centered about the selection of Agnew.

William O. Walker, an alternate delegate from Cleveland, said of Agnew: "The thing that disturbs me is how his selection was brought about. This was done by Nixon selling out to South Carolina Sen. Strom Thurmond."

Reduce Miami Curfew

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Authorities reduced by four hours Sunday the dark-to-dawn curfew that had been imposed on half of Miami to halt street fighting.

The ban on all but emergency traffic was imposed after street fighting, which led to three deaths, broke out Wednesday.

Sheriff E. Wilson Purdy said the curfew hours were reduced to midnight to 6 a.m. and that other steps would depend on the outcome of meetings among residents of the trouble areas.

Purdy, over-all commander of National Guard and police forces that were rushed in after an outbreak of racial violence in three Negro sections, described the curfew modification as part of his "efforts to de-escalate the areas."

Police reported all was quiet again Sunday, the third day without major violence.

Residents of Liberty City, the large business and residential area in northwest Miami where the violence started, met in two community conclaves Sunday and elected adult and youth advisory councils to seek a solution to racial problems.

Representatives of the Negro youths have called for withdrawal of the National Guard troops, immediate release without bond of all persons arrested as a result of the violence and that public inquiries be held in the three deaths. They also suggested a "black hat patrol" of Negroes to replace the National Guardsmen.

Authorities have made no official response to the demands, but Purdy — in response to a newsman's question — rejected the idea of a youth patrol as a replacement for the Guard.

"I will not yield police powers to volunteer citizens' groups," he said. "I don't care whether they wear black hats, white hats, green hats or purple hats."

Say Briton Had Role In a Plot

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — The Haitian government charged today that a British official accused of plotting an abortive invasion last May sent secret messages announcing his move to a hotel "within machine gun distance" of President Francois Duvalier's palace.

The trial of David Knox, 44, information director of the Bahamas, opened today. Diplomatic sources said the government had evidence that Knox sent a code letter containing the "machine gun" reference to a woman accomplice addressed as "Darling."

These sources said South African-born Knox would be charged with five counts of espionage, one of plotting against the security of the state, and other counts that he altered his appearance, tried to bribe Police Chief Frederick Arty and had contacts with Haitian rebels in the Bahamas before the unsuccessful May 20 invasion.

Knox was seized May 31 when he entered Haiti under an assumed name and paid a doctor $60 to cut two scars into his face, the government says. It contends he acted as a British special agent.

But the British government claims that Knox was more Walter Mitty than James Bond — a man who got into trouble because he liked to create an aura of mystery around himself.

A government spokesman said the trial would include sensational disclosures about "foreign elements" in the United States, Canada and the Bahamas who plotted to overthrow Duvalier's regime.

Watts District Is Torn by New Riots

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gun battles between police and Negroes in the Watts area of Los Angeles Sunday night and early today left three Negroes dead and 35 people wounded or injured, including six policemen.

In Little Rock, Ark., some minor disturbances erupted for the third consecutive night.

Police kept a close watch on two Chicago suburbs as a result of a rash of fires early Sunday. In Seattle, a fireman was struck in the forearm by one of three shotgun blasts sent into a fire station Sunday night from a passing car.

The Watts disturbances followed a festival commemorating the third anniversary of bloody rioting in the 98 per cent Negro area in which 34 persons died. In the latest outbreaks, spreading over 20 blocks, one hospital reported about 30 civilians were treated for gunshot and knife wounds and other injuries. Firemen said they had to dodge sniper bullets as they fought several blazes.

Chicago Heights and East Chicago Heights were under 9 p.m. curfews after the series of fires. One blaze destroyed a warehouse causing an estimated $400,000 damage. Police said five of the fires were the work of arsonists but the cause of the warehouse fire was not determined.

A policeman was shot while investigating one of the fires. Two youths were beaten, one critically, in a separate incident. Two Negroes were taken into custody in connection with some of the fires.

In Little Rock, a seven-hour curfew was placed on the city and surrounding Pulaski County Sunday night as some firebombings were reported and a patrolman's arm was grazed by shotgun pellets. There were several arrests.

At Miami, Fla., authorities Sunday cut the dark-to-dawn curfew by four hours as the city remained free of major violence for the third straight day.

U.S. Engages Enemy Forces

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. troops guarding the southern approaches to Saigon battled the Viet Cong today at two points nine miles apart.

Helicopters landed more than 1,000 men from the 9th Division in rice fields 24 miles south of Saigon in an attempt to encircle an enemy force estimated at more than 100 troops.

Details were sketchy, and no casualty figures were reported as yet. But the fighting was said to be heavy at times.

That fight was just south of Rach Kien, a key district capital. The Americans were sent in after intelligence reports told of the enemy unit, and the GIs drew fire shortly after they landed.

In a delayed report, U.S. headquarters said that a Viet Cong force fired with bazooka-type rockets Saturday at the U.S. freighter Southport II as it approached Saigon.

U.S. Navy gunboats, helicopter gunships and Air Force fighter-bombers attacked the enemy positions along the bank and then strafed fleeing groups of Viet Cong. A U.S. spokesman said 20 Viet Cong were killed, there were no U.S. casualties and the ship was not damaged.

In the air war, U.S. Air Force B52s bombed North Vietnam for the first time in nearly a month, while U.S. tactical fighter-bombers flew 110 missions Sunday against enemy supply lines in North Vietnam's southern panhandle. The latter pilots reported destroying or damaging 42 trucks and 17 supply boats.

The B52 strikes along the frontier ranged from inside the northern half of the demilitarized zone about eight miles west-northwest of the Marine base at Con Thien to

Nine People Killed On State Roads

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nine persons were killed in Missouri traffic accidents over the weekend between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

An Iowa woman was killed and seven other persons were injured in a two-car collision on Missouri 65, four miles north of Fair Grove just before midnight Sunday. Mrs. Bertha Alexander, 48, Des Moines, was driving a car that collided with an oncoming auto that had struck a bridge and careened into the northbound lane.

The dead included a pedestrian, Mettie Moss, 83, of Excello, Mo. The highway patrol said she was struck by an auto while walking on Route T near her home.

In one accident, three members of a Carbondale, Ill., family burned to death and three others were injured seriously when their car struck a guard rail on Interstate 70 just west of Sweet Springs. Three young brothers killed were Robert Eugene Kerby, 15, Michael Edward, 12, and Donald Wayne, 10.

Their father, the driver of the car, was injured along with their mother and sister.

The boys were trapped inside the burning wreckage. A couple was killed Sunday when their car slammed into a pole in St. Louis. The victims were Alvis and Ella Sue Jones, both 26.

Others killed in traffic accidents:

James Gentry, 22, Senath, Mo., one-car accident Saturday south of Kennett; Robert Kircher, 52, Florissant, one-car accident Saturday near Eureka; and Mrs. Janice Ruth Baker, 19, Joplin, two-car collision early Sunday west of Joplin.

In the same period in Kansas, 17 persons lost their lives — 15 of them in three accidents.

Look Familiar?

Taking on an old familiar look, 103rd street in Watts, the center of the 1965 riots, again shows signs of looting following the first major flareup in the area since that time. Five policemen were wounded, three civilians killed and 32 others hurt. The trouble started, it is believed, when police attempted to arrest a drunken person. (UPI)

Monsees is Named As Nixon Chairman

Dick Monsees, Route 2, Sedalia, has been named state agricultural chairman for the United Citizens for Nixon.

The announcement was made by Dr. R. R. Spitzer, national agricultural co-ordinator of the Nixon committee and president of Murphy Products Co., Burlington, Wis.

Monsees, who operates a 1,200-acre farm in Pettis

The United Citizens, within which Monsees' committee will function, is an arm of the national Nixon for President campaign organization.

Monsees said his objective as head of the agricultural program of the campaign will be to enlist farmers' ideas and activate their personal support on a county-by-county basis in behalf of Nixon's candidacy.

"The expression of ideas from individual farmers is the basis for a meaningful and realistic national farm policy," Monsees said. "Our goal will be to see that their ideas become known to the policy makers."

A state-wide committee is being formed during the summer under Monsees' direction.

Dick Monsees

County, grows corn, soybeans and milo and raises Hereford cattle. He is a director of the Missouri State Bank and vice president of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce. He was president of the County Farm Bureau for three years and for 10 years was president of the Western Missouri Cattle Breeders Association. He is a former chairman of the state ASC Committee, serving in that capacity for three years.

"Under the leadership of Mr. Monsees we hope to focus attention on the opportunities that exist today for the American farmer and improvements in the farm economy that can be achieved under a new administration headed by Richard Nixon," Dr. Spitzer said in announcing the appointment.

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Five men unloading a cargo of fish were fatally stricken Sunday and one-by-one toppled into the hold of the fishing trawler Novelty.

The nature of the poison in the hold remained a mystery, and autopsies were performed today on the victims. Toxic samples taken from the ship's hold were analyzed.

Lee County sheriff's investigator James Loeffler said, "We don't know what killed them or where it came from. They either got a whiff of a toxic gas or some sort of chemical poison."

Back from a successful trip, the crew of the 125-foot trawler Novelty and dockworkers were preparing to load the ship's hold to enable huge pumps to pull out both water and fish.

"When the water was turned on," Loeffler said, "the man holding the hose immediately collapsed and fell into the hold."

The first man to react, Francis L. Winter, 53, of Punto

Gorda, Fla., jumped through the hatch and reached the body when he, too, keeled over.

As he slumped into the hold, his brother, Joseph, 55, also of Punta Gorda, raced to the hatchway. He got his feet on the ladder and his hand on the rail when the poison hit him and he fell the rest of the way, Loeffler said.

"The other two men never left the deck," the investigator said. "They just looked into the hold and collapsed through the hatch."

He said a sixth man was felled by the incredibly fast-acting poison, but was rescued by the ship's one-armed cook, Clyde Parrish, and dock worker Roy McNeely.

"All of this transpired in less than two minutes," Loeffler said. McNeely descended with a rope while holding his breath and raised the last man to be felled.

"Parrish is the hero if there is one," Loeffler said. Without knowing what had stricken his shipmates and the dock workers, he administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Loeffler said Lawrence Finley, 33, of North Port Charlotte, began to breathe without aid and was rushed to a nearby hospital where he was reported unconscious and in critical condition.

Meanwhile, William Conrad of the Fort Myers fire department rescue team, went into the smelly hold with ropes and brought up the body of Kenneth Smith, 55, manager of the fish processing plant where the ship was docked.

Conrad, who had no mask, held his breath while working in the hold.

The fireman repeated his rescue attempt when he saw the body of Stephen Richmond, 18-year-old second engineer on the boat.

The other bodies were brought up by firemen after gas masks arrived at the wharf. Besides the Winter brothers there was Francis Webb, 23, of Peace Dale, R. I., the boat's pilot.

In Pakistan, It's Family Planning vs. Famine

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

WASHINGTON, D.C.—(NEA)—Knowledge of family planning in underdeveloped countries can mean the difference between hunger and a full stomach.

Narrowing the gap between food and mouth in such countries as Pakistan is the major task of the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID). The gap is being narrowed by raising food production and lowering birth rates.

In addition to massive agricultural assistance, AID is providing Pakistan with new weapons in the struggle against overpopulation. Among other things, it is training key personnel who administer more than 3,000 family-planning centers throughout the country. And the Pakistanis are taking giant steps toward meeting this help more than halfway.

Doctors at a family-planning center in East Pakistan were surprised recently to find an old man waiting in line for a vasectomy. He had come, he said, to collect the 20 rupees paid as an incentive to those willing to undergo sterilization. The old man then introduced five sons who, he said, had made the same decision.

"You realize, of course," said the doctor in charge of surgery, "that you will not have any more grandsons?" The old man laughed. "Promises, promises. All we get are promises."

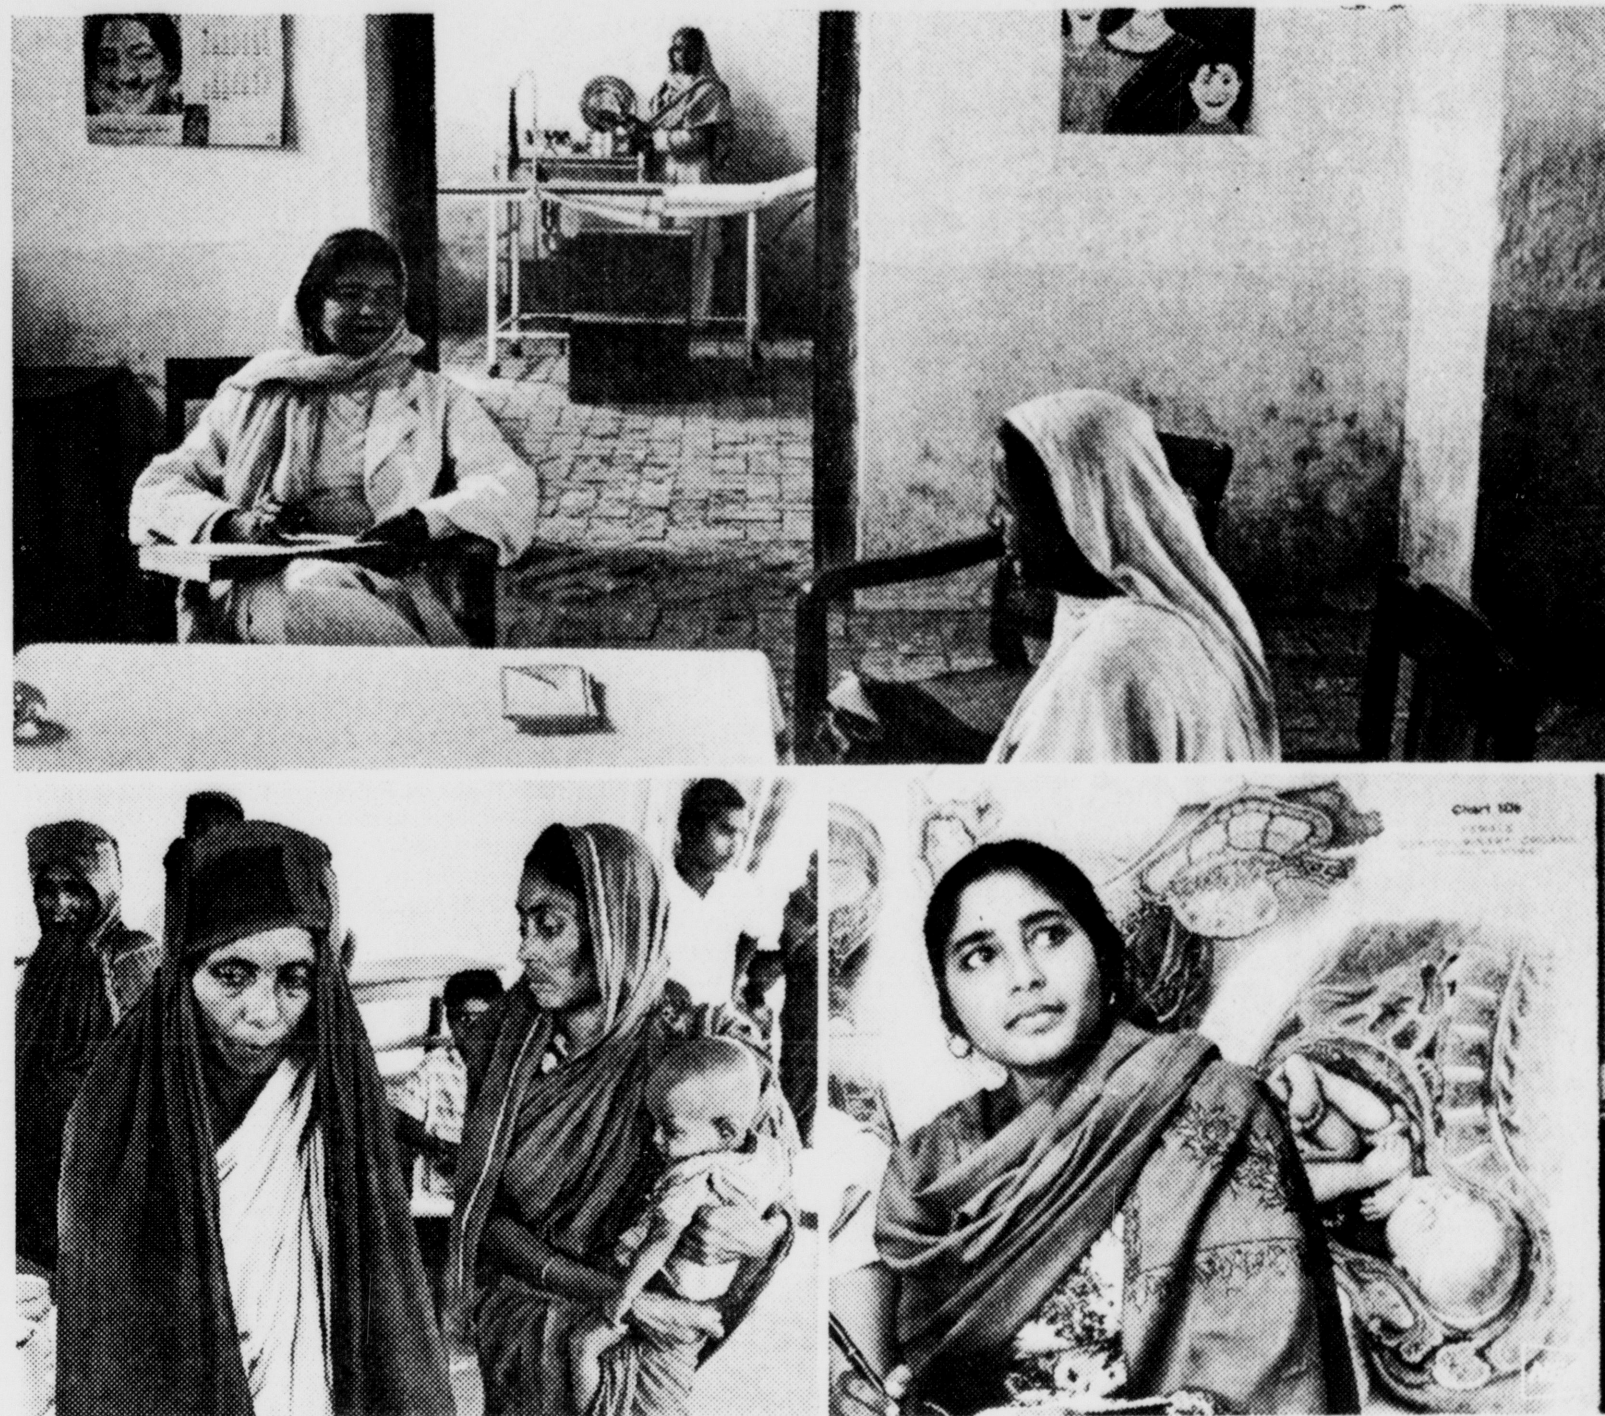

This is a promise that the government of Pakistan intends to keep, according to AID. Through sterilization of men and use of the intra-uterine device (IUD) by women, Pakistan is making rapid progress toward a five-year goal which would cut back the rate of births 20 per cent by 1970.

The family-planning program is closely tied to Pakistan's efforts to attain early self-sufficiency in food production. The birth rate increase exceeds 2.5 per cent annually. Without a successful family-planning program, Pakistan's population would double within 20 years and wipe out all the efforts being made to develop the country.

AID's health and family planning team in Pakistan includes a full-time demographer, public health adviser, physician, two nurse advisers and two health educators. About 40 Pakistanis are receiving specialized training in the United States and other countries in health education and administration, nursing education and mass communication techniques.

The U.S. agency also provides Pakistan with contraceptives, vehicles including jeeps and motors for boats to reach remote villages and local currency support for family-planning centers. In the fiscal year of 1968 the agency expects to obligate $750,000 for family-planning work as well as $5.3 million in Pakistani rupees generated through sale of U.S. food under the Food for Freedom program. In 1967 a loan for $168,000 in local currency helped a number of family-planning projects, including expansion of a factory for contraceptive pills.

The manufacture and distribution of oral contraceptives, however, is largely confined to the private sector in Pakistan. The government's family-planning program has relied principally on IUD, sterilization operations and contraceptives other than pills.

By the end of 1967, the intra-uterine devices used to taled almost 1.2 million or 40 per cent of the five-year goal set in 1965. Use of the device increased from 25,000 in the first year to 49,000 in the second and 59,000 in the first half of 1967. By 1970 the rate of usage is expected to average 67,000 a month.

More than 300 lady health "visitors" have been trained to help the doctors. Their duties include reassuring women who often walk for miles to reach the rural or urban clinics only to have last-minute doubts about the rumored side-effects of the IUD.

Even more dramatic than the IUD program is the unexpected success of the sterilization program in East Pakistan where, according to AID, more than 181,000 operations have been performed.

The "loop" or IUD.

McGovern Claims Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — Net gain for Sen. George S. McGovern after two days in the Democratic presidential race appears to be endorsement by several former Kennedy aides, approving nods from some former Kennedy supporters and two delegate votes.

But, the South Dakotan said Sunday, he has at least a "fighting chance" to beat out the other two announced candidates, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

McGovern commented on a radio-television program 24 hours after he entered the race. He intends to use the medium as the chief vehicle for his 11th hour drive before the Democratic National Convention opening in Chicago two weeks from today.

His schedule included three tentative television taping or live sessions today and another Tuesday.

McGovern, a 46-year-old former college professor with a record of winning uphill fights, invoke the name of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy numerous times when he formally announced Saturday.

He launched his candidacy in the Caucus Room of the old Senate Office Building where both Robert and John Kennedy launched theirs.

McGovern said he would campaign on a Kennedy-style get-out-of-Vietnam plank.

"I believe deeply in the twin goals for which Robert Kennedy gave his life," he said, "an end to the war in Vietnam and a passionate commitment to heal the division in our own society."

His avowed hope is to pick up the 300-plus convention delegates pledged to Kennedy when the New York senator was slain last June 6. But the immediate impact was far from encouraging.

Only two members of the Nebraska delegation which Kennedy won in a primary declared their support for McGovern, an Associated Press poll showed.

Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh, leader of the 174-member California delegation, said he was "very happy to see Sen. McGovern participate" in the race.

But the delegation won by Kennedy only hours before he was shot reaffirmed its intention to go to the convention uncommitted.

The chairman of the Nebraska delegation said 20 to 23 of the 30 members are still unpledged although this could change at a caucus this week.

In Colorado, State Rep. Richard Gebhart who headed Kennedy's state campaign, said he had no reason to believe Kennedy-pledged delegates would come out for McGovern before the convention.

There was no comment from the Kennedy family, but McGovern said he neither expected nor would seek any.

Quick endorsement came from former Kennedy aides Pierre Salinger, Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. and Frank Mankiewicz. The latter handled press matters for Robert Kennedy and will do the same for McGovern.

McGovern said he had talked to other top Kennedy aides and had been given "a very green light from all of them."

But both Humphrey and McCarthy indicated they expect McGovern to have little impact on their campaigns.

"I really don't think it will have appreciable effect," said Humphrey who also claimed 1,600 delegate votes, more than the 1,312 needed for nomination.

McCarthy, echoing the same sentiment, said that if anything it will make it easier for Kennedy delegates to "come to me."

McGovern, before he announced, had 26 delegates committed to him. They represent the South Dakota delegation won by Kennedy in the state's primary.

The most recent Associated Press poll of firm delegate votes showed 792½ for Humphrey, 423½ for McCarthy and 1,408 uncommitted or pledged to favorite sons.

McGovern is running for reelection to a second Senate term, but said if he gets the presidential nomination he will quit the Senate race.

McGovern first entered politics in 1953 as South Dakota Democratic chairman, was twice elected to the House, but was defeated in a Senate race in 1960 by incumbent Republican Karl Mundt.

His three successful runs for elective office were made in areas traditionally Republican.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Jefferson Barracks National Cemetery, with about 45,000 graves, has begun an expansion program "to keep ahead of demands."

"We still have about 4,000 grave sites," said William Boyer, superintendent, but burials are running about 1,800 a year.

The cemetery was started in 1837 and became a federal property in 1866.

He moved to Cedar Springs, Mich., in 1940 and had been active in many civic projects. Accidents

Damage resulted to two automobiles in a sideswipe accident about 7:55 p.m. Sunday a short distance past the junction of H and HH junction on north U.S. Highway 65. No injuries were reported.

Corporal Pete Stohr of the State Highway Patrol, who investigated the accident, reported a 1966 Chevrolet sedan was being driven south on the highway by Mrs. Adella Hutchison, 1111 West Sixth, and a 1960 Plymouth sedan reportedly driven by Norman Stephens, 48, of Boonville, was headed north. According to the reports given the Highway Patrol, the Plymouth was passing a car driven by Robert Fenlon, of Columbia, and went between the Fenlon car and that driven by Mrs. Hutchison.

Fenlon drove on to a farm home just north of the accident and called the Highway Patrol. The Plymouth was apprehended by Trooper Donald L. Wells, Boonville, of the State Highway Patrol, on I-70 near Boonville, who returned Stephens to Marshall Junction and released him to Cpl. Stohr, who in turn brought him to Sedalia.

Magistrate Court records indicated that Stephens was released Monday morning after signing a $1,200 personal surety bond for appearance in court Sept. 5.

Wayne Goosen, 18, 2503 Margaret, is reported to be in satisfactory condition at the University of Missouri Medical Center where he was taken last Friday following an accident on U.S. Highway 65 about 13 miles south of Sedalia.

Goosen was first brought to Sedalia in the Fox ambulance from Cole Camp, where he was given emergency treatment by Dr. J. W. Maunders for a broken right leg, lacerations to his forehead and multiple bruises and abrasions on his body, and a reported injury to a shoulder bone. After further examination he was transferred to Columbia.

The Highway Patrol reported Goosen was northbound in a 1962 Chevrolet and apparently struck the left rear dual wheels of a northbound 1967 White tractor-trailer unit driven by Ellis Simms, 40, of Caneyhill, Ark.

The Chevrolet was demolished in the accident. Trooper Grover W. Mitchell of the State Highway Patrol, Clinton, investigated the accident.

A one-car accident on Route 4 on County Highway B near the site of the old Thunder Bowl race track resulted in damage to the vehicle while the occupants escaped injury about 11:35 p.m. Saturday.

According to Trooper Joe Dayringer of the State Highway Patrol, who investigated the accident, the car, a 1957 Buick sedan, was driven by Miss Teresa Lynn White, 17, of Route 2, Green Ridge. She was headed west, according to the trooper, and an approaching car crowded her. She reportedly pulled off on the right shoulder and in pulling back on the slippery pavement, lost control of the car. It eased off on the left side into a ditch traveled down the ditch and then went through a fence and a gate on the farm of A. J. Mergen.

Trooper Dayringer reported from the point where the car left the highway to where it stopped was approximately 275 feet. The front end of the car was extensively damaged.

Carl Hoehns, 20, of Green Ridge, who was riding with Miss White, escaped injury.

Extensive damage resulted to a 1963 Chevrolet hardtop coach Sunday afternoon when it crashed into a guard rail on U.S. Highway 65 about a mile and a half north of the junction of H and HH highways.

The car was driven by Jess Lynn Nichols, 17, of Hiawatha, Kan., and headed north. Trooper Joe Dayringer of the State Patrol reported that Nichols had passed a car and was about to pass another when the car also pulled out to pass a car ahead of it. Nichols swerved to the left and struck the guard rail and the car spun around on the pavement.

Damage resulted to the front end and left front fender. It was towed back to Sedalia by Darnell's wrecker.

Donald I. Casey, 19, of 911 South Harrison, rider of a motorcycle which struck a mail box at 13th and Ohio about 2:25 p.m. Sunday escaped injury. The motorcycle was damaged.

Police reported Casey was headed north on Ohio when a car driven by Robert W. Stevenson, 412 East 12th, made a left turn onto Ohio from the west. Casey, in avoiding striking the automobile, pulled to his left, the cycle jumping the curb and striking the mail box.

The vehicles did not collide.

GOOD FARMING with Lloyd Lewellen

Pettis County
Farm Management Agent

There were 41 farmers and dealers who attended the grain drying meeting last Monday at the REA building. Seven farmers reported on their experience with various drying methods and equipment in the morning. A representative from the electrical power source and the propane gas dealers also spoke to the group. In the afternoon Bob Geroge, Extension Engineer, showed slides on drying systems he had seen and visited over the state. He also explained the theory of grain drying. It is his belief that to have the least cost for corn harvesting, the farmer should harvest and dry 5 per cent of the corn crop each day and average harvest at 23 per cent moisture.

If you are a farmer having difficulty with your drying equipment or are contemplating new bins and dryers I think you would gain talking to one of these farmers who has a system similar to yours. This seems to be an area where experience counts a lot and reading the book solves only some of the problems you usually encounter in trying to get wet corn through a dryer at a fast rate.

Feedlot Tour

Last Wednesday 24 feeders and bankers attended the feedlot tour on four farms near Mexico, Mo. On this tour they were able to see beef costs in investments as far as facilities were concerned. The cost of an investment on each farm was given and a rough estimate of the cost of grain was also reported. I think these feeders agreed that this was a better tour than last year as they had more time to see the facilities and hear the story told by the feeder and farmer at each stop.

The value of this type of tour was expressed in the number who attended. It is estimated that between 800 and 1,000 attended from nearly every county in the state who feed any number of beef cattle. This tour afforded the opportunity to get some cost figures together and probably rates of return from the cattle feeding business.

Moths Are Flying

The buff-colored moth, flying over your lawn ahead of the last week are the fore-runners of the web-worm moth. Spraying to try to kill the moth won't work but the control of the larvae which causes the lawn damage will. This web-worm larvae which will hatch out in a week is a gray worm with small brown spots over their back and a black head. They are about an inch long when they mature and they live for about four weeks as a larvae. Brown spots appear in the lawn when the worms are numerous. Usually a large number of robins will move in to feed on the larvae.

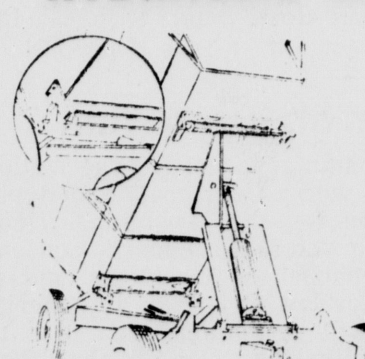

Corn Silage

Having your silage analyzed this winter will assist you in balancing rations to obtain maximum production. However, this winter will be too late to change a composition in feeding value of the silage. The only time to determine the feeding value is stage of growth in which you harvest the corn for silage and the additives you add at time of filling. Cutting the corn too early will reduce the dry matter yield per acre and the energy content. More mature corn will have a higher proportion of grain and dry matter and therefore more energy.

Adding urea at the time of ensilage increases the amount of protein in the silage. Use ten pounds urea, ten pounds lime plus two pounds Dicalcium phosphate, or even better with 60 per cent silage use 13 pounds urea, 2½ pounds of Dicalciumphosphate and 4½ pounds of trace mineralized salt.

There are several farmers who added urea to their silage last year and were well pleased with the results. Forage analyzed next winter will provide for correct and cheaper feeding with silage. This is a good way to save some money. Most farmers will tend to continue feeding protein at the same rate when it is not necessary, if urea is added to the silage.

'Invasion' Of Farming Condemned

COLUMBIA — The invasion of agriculture by giant corporations is the most alarming situation confronting farmers, Fred V. Heinkel, president of the Midcontinent and Missouri Farmers Associations, told the annual MFA convention here Monday.

He identified the giant corporations as "principally a bunch of greedy feed companies."

Heinkel said, "Independent family farmers have in the main been forced out of the production of broilers, eggs and turkeys," and warned that the same practices are now being extended to hogs.

"The company furnishes the pigs and the feed. The individual furnishes the land and all the labor and gets $2 per hog. To earn $2,000 the individual would have to feed 1,000 pigs. A hundred such operations in a trade territory would turn out 100,000 hogs. This would soon create an oversupply that would wreck the hog business for all farmers. It had this effect on broiler producers, egg producers, and turkey producers," the MFA leader explained.

Heinkel called for a thorough investigation by the Federal Trade Commission to determine if the Sherman Anti-trust Law, the Clayton Act, the Robinson-Patman Act, and the Packers and Stockyards Act are being violated.

Heinkel added that other corporations, mostly oil companies, have gobbled up most of the independent fertilizer companies in the country and are engaging in some unimaginative marketing practices that probably should be looked at by the Federal Trade Commission, too.

Safety For Red Cross Being Asked

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Biafra's chief delegate to the civil war peace talks asked Emperor Haile Selassie today to get the Nigerian government to stop firing on Red Cross mercy flights to starving Biafra.

Prof. Eni Njoku, Biafra's chief representative at the peace talks here, told the emperor that British-made weapons were used against the planes delivering food and medical supplies to his besieged region.

The International Red Cross announced Saturday it has suspended relief flights to Biafra because one of its planes was fired at and another forced to turn back by heavy ground fire.

owners report that beef animals do well and refuse to eat hay unless snow covers the pasture. Problems include an occasional outbreak of fescue foot, but good management seems to minimize this difficulty.

Several methods are used to enable the fescue to be saved until the cold weather period. One is to topdress other grasses on the farm, and then graze them out first. Small grain pasture, stalk fields, and late planted sorghum sudan crosses, or Gahi millet grazed out in the fall are other alternatives which are being used.

Grass Seed Production
Farmers who are producing grass seed may help their seed harvest next year by topdressing during the late summer with nitrogen, phosphate, and potash fertilizer. At the same time they will increase available pasture from seed fields this fall.

Late summer fertilization has long been recommended for grass seed production. Treatments applied at this time give higher seed yields than spring applications. In addition, less lodging seems to occur from late summer treatments and this is an important factor in many seasons. The added fall growth is a bonus which in most cases can be utilized effectively by livestock on the farm.

Punda Milia, a zebra colt born three weeks ago at the St. Louis Zoo, is beginning to take an interest in the world about him, and the world is taking an interest in him. The young male frolicked in his enclosure for the apparent benefit of his neighbor, peering over the fence behind him. Punda was kept in semi-isolation with his mother, Gretchen, from birth until last weekend when his keepers were confident that he was healthy and would thrive. Zoo birth of zebras are relatively rare. Punda is the first to survive in 22 years. (UPI)

Prison Guards Are Freed in Safety

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP) — Two State Prison guards held by rebellious inmates were released unharmed Sunday after a newsman listened to prisoner grievances.

Two ringleaders of the six-hour disturbance were placed in maximum security cells after the meeting. The newsman, Al Spiers of Michigan City, listened with Warden Ward Lane and Anthony Kuharich, state correction commissioner, for more than an hour to various complaints from some 20 prisoners.

Corporations Posing Major Farm Threat

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The most alarming situation facing farmers is, in the opinion of a Missouri farm leader, the invasion of agriculture by giant corporations.

The view was expressed in a speech prepared by Fred V. Heinkel for delivery here today.

Heinkel is president of the Midcontinent and Missouri Farmers associations and was a speaker at the one-day convention of the two groups on the Stephens College campus.

About 6,000 delegates and guests were expected. The speakers' list included Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and B. J. Malusky, general manager of the Farmers Union Grain Terminal Association of St. Paul, Minn.

Heinkel identified the feared giant corporations as "principally a bunch of greedy feed companies." He said "independent family farmers have in the main been forced out of the production of broilers, eggs and turkeys" and warned that the same practices are being extended to hogs.

"The company furnishes the pigs and the feed," Heinkel said. "The individual furnishes the land and all the labor and gets $2.00 per hog. To earn $2,000 the individual would have to feed 1,000 pigs. A hundred such operations in a trade territory would wreck the hog business for all farmers."

Heinkel called for an investigation by the Federal Trade Commission and also said that the commission should look at trade practices in the fertilizer industry. He alleged that some corporations, mostly oil companies, have gobbled up most of the independent fertilizer companies.

Capital Spotlight

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Hewlett, N.Y., man has become the first person to be arrested under the wiretapping and eavesdropping provisions of the 1968 Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act.

Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark announced the FBI arrested David R. Lagnado, 38, at the Minneapolis-St. Paul Metropolitan Airport Sunday morning and charged him with illegal interstate transportation of a device designed for wiretapping or eavesdropping.

The FBI accused Lagnado of carrying such a device, in the form of an attaché case containing a recording device, on a flight from Kennedy International Airport in New York City in violation of the law signed by President Johnson June 19.

Lagnado was taken before a U.S. commissioner. The maximum sentence under the provision involved is a $10,000 fine, a five-year prison term or both.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Urban renewal projects may be speeded up an average four years under a provision of the new federal housing act that will permit neighborhoods to start work before all planning is completed, officials say.

They predict the start-to-finish time will be reduced to an average 8 years from 12 and say the provision will free billions of dollars of government money that before had to lay idle until full planning for projects was completed.

Under the new Neighborhood Development program, some execution funds will be available in addition to planning money the first year. Money is to be available in succeeding years for more work as it becomes planned and ready to go.

Supermarket chains sometimes sell inferior food in poor neighborhoods—and there is inconclusive evidence worth further study that they may charge higher prices for it, says a House Government Operations Committee report. For the past few years we have suggested making a compost pile or heap, utilizing all the waste vegetation that accumulates around the yard and garden during the course of the season.

And so, as a reminder to some, and perhaps a nod to others to consider this practice, we repeat in very general and simple terms how to start and complete a compost heap.

Compost heaps can vary from the most simple to the elaborate. It is most convenient to have a rick or bin in which to make the compost. You might use ordinary wire fence, or boards attached to solid posts. You could also use concrete blocks if you allow air space between blocks.

The rick or bin should be about three to five feet high, three to five feet wide and of any convenient length. The dimensions will depend on how much material you have to compost.

If you place your compost heap anywhere near a large tree, it would be desirable to lay down a sheet of plastic on the surface of the ground. Place a little soil over the plastic and you have a good source of micro-organisms. The plastic will prevent the tree roots from growing into the compost heap as it is decomposing and curing.

To begin your heap, build up a six to eight-inch layer of plant materials. Use sod, grass clippings (mix with other coarse materials), weeds, manure, leaves, hay, straw, chopped corn cobs or stalks, sawdust, or other plant refuse.

Over the layer of plant materials, sprinkle one cup of fertilizer (6-10-4, 12-12-12, or equivalent) for each 25 square feet. Cover the fertilizer with about an inch of soil.

If desired, a cup of agricultural or dolomitic limestone per each 25 square feet can be applied over the soil.

Repeat layers until the heap is three to five feet high — or you run out of material. You can substitute fresh animal or poultry manure for the fertilizer if you have it available.

Keep the compost heap moist, but not soaking wet. During periods of abundant rainfall, covering the heap with a tarp will prevent excessive soaking and leaching.

So take advantage of the weeds and plant refuse you accumulate during the growing season. Compost them! But beware of using diseased plants, weeds with mature seed heads, or greasy foods from the kitchen.

What are the uses for compost? Compost is usually used as a soil amendment in the vegetable or flower garden, or for mixing potting soils. But it can also be used on lawns and around trees or shrubs. You can never have enough compost.

Syrian Pilots Seek Safety in Israel

TEL AVIV (AP)—Two Syrian Air Force pilots flew their MIG17 jet planes across the frontier today and gave themselves up at an air base in northern Israel, the Israeli army announced.

An army spokesman said the planes and the pilots were in good condition.

One of the pilots was a captain, the other a lieutenant, the army said.

In 1966, an Iraqi air force pilot defected to Israel in a MIG21 jet. It was believed at the time it was the first MIG21 to fall into western hands in such perfect condition.

No further details were immediately available on the Syrian pilots.

WHY IS THIS TRUE? Simply because a LAND BANK LOAN has all the advantages a sound credit program should have. Unlike most loans it is very flexible... tailored to fit the individual farm need. And, it speaks the language of the farmer.

Fairly, the Party's Choice

Like reform of the electoral college, reform of this country's method of selecting its presidential candidates is a once-every-four-years topic of discussion.

Our party nominating conventions are called anything from circuses to farces to cynically designed vehicles for thwarting "the people's will." The latter charge was at least implied by one of the Republican hopefuls who entered the contest too late with too little.

This implication implies another — that the 1,333 delegates and their alternates to the GOP convention did not represent their fellow voters in their home states, that they were mere minions of the party "machine."

A study of their biographies reveals a far different make-up. There may have been city hall hangers-on and statehouse sycophants among them, as well as numerous office holders, but the overwhelming majority were ordinary people who worked and will continue to work for their party on the local level in a variety of capacities.

The primary system with its convention climax may not be the best way to go about this all-important business of selecting a presidential candidate. But Richard M. Nixon did not create the system; he used it as it was meant to be used. The same opportunity was open to every other candidate.

To charge that Nixon went into the convention with a majority of the delegates "sewed up" is about as silly as to complain that the next president will be elected only because he convinces a majority of the voters that he is the best man.

On the contrary, those who hoped for a bolt of lightning to dismantle the Nixon streamroller laid themselves open to the charge of wheeling and dealing and attempting to thwart "the people's will," and "the party's choice."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Gentlemen, Gentlemen, Tut, Tut!

DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Congress adjourned in such a hurry to attend the two political conventions that some very important by-play affecting the ethics of Congress escaped attention.

One was a near fist fight between two able congressmen, John Dingell, the Detroit Democrat, and Fred Schwegel, the cornhusker Republican. It was over the $75,000 contributed by the trucking lobby to key members of Congress and Schwegel's request that Congress investigate the ethics of these contributions.

Dingell had received $1,500.

After the trucking lobby had generously sprinkled money around, three bills were given favorable consideration:

1. A bill to double the weight of trucks on federal highways; 2. A bill to limit trucking by farm co-ops in favor of commercial truckers and 3. The highway bill which favored the billboard lobby, endangered parks and historic sites and trampled on the rights of local communities to locate highways where they wanted them.

Schwegel of Iowa considered all this to be something which bordered on unethical conduct, as outlined in the recent book, "The Case Against Congress," and he wrote the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct about it. This enraged Dingell and at one point speaker McCormack ordered some of his sizzling language stricken from the congressional record.

— Fists Flew —

What Dingell said was "You're a lair and a coward. If I see you in the alley, I'll plant my fist where your glasses are." He shook his fist under Schwegel's nose.

"The clerk will cut that from the record," ordered McCormack, who had left the speaker's chair and was on the floor trying to restore order.

Later there was another flare-up in the speaker's lobby as Dingell walked past Schwegel he exclaimed:

"What I said on the floor still goes, if you want to do anything about it. I'll be glad to repeat it here. That's what I think of you."

"Listen," shot back Schwegel, "I've never fought away from a fight in my life and I won't do so here. Also, I've never falsely accused anyone knowingly in my life. I can take care of myself."

Though 61, Schwegel is one of the most physically fit members of the House. He works out in the House gym, can do more than 50 pushups. Dingell, 42, is an outdoors man and hunter.

Friends separated the two.

Their altercation on the floor erupted during a speech by Schwegel urging House passage of the Senate-passed bill to reorganize Congress, improve ethical procedures and give the minority party a greater voice in legislation before committees. Previously he had lambasted the trucking lobby for its contributions to colleagues.

"Is the gentleman charging that any of his colleagues in this body engage in any practice that is not fully ethical?" challenged Dingell. "You have made a lot of charges and I want an answer."

Schwegel: "No, not one member."

Dingell: "If the rules permitted — and I am very sorry they do not — I might use some terms that would reflect rather differently the attitude I happen to feel toward you, and I do not use the term 'gentleman,' but the member from Iowa."

At this point, Dingell's comments, which were expunged by speaker McCormack, took place. However, almost as soon as the atmosphere quieted down, he heated up again. Referring to the trucking lobby's campaign contributions, Schwegel declared:

"I have no proof that any one member was unduly influenced. I just know of a set of circumstances that look suspicious. I do not point a finger at any member of this body as having done anything wrong."

— Not Too Bright —

Dingell: "I am aware of the fact that the member from Iowa is not too bright, but I wonder if he is even aware of the fact that I am not a member of the committee that considered those matters."

Schwegel: "I am not accusing you or any member of the House."

Dingell: "All right, I want it to be very clear because you do have the protection against libel laws here on the floor of the Congress."

Schwegel: "I wrote a letter—"

Dingell: "I believe you have said quite enough."

Schwegel: "The letter is addressed to the chairman of the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct. It reads, in part, 'This is not to imply that any member was actually unduly influenced by money given to his campaign fund by the American Truckers Association.' That ought to be clear enough."

At this point, Dingell made a point of order that a quorum was not present, in order to shut Schwegel from further discussion. Then, at McCormack's suggestion, he withdrew the point of order. Both men left the floor, only to square off again in the Speaker's lobby.

Task for New President: Rid Pentagon of Lethargy

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Whoever is elected president of the United States in November will have to engineer a shake-up of the Pentagon and U.S. defense plans.

Now coming to light is the highly serious danger to this country's future security resulting from certain weaknesses Robert S. McNamara built into Department of Defense machinery during his seven-year tenure.

It now takes an estimated eight years in the United States to push a major new defense system from conception to employment.

This compares with four to five years in the Soviet Union. It compares with the three to four to five years required in various pre-McNamara eras in the United States.

This means that key defense programs, such as the antiballistic system now planned for this country, may be obsolete before they are in operation — even when flexibility and growth are built in.

It means that, starting from scratch, with equally good research work, the Russians could beat the United States to the punch in putting in a large new operational bomber, missile, missile defense or air defense system.

Luckily, to date the United States has been somewhat ahead in military research.

But military research in the United States has been declining for several years. The figures are misleading. Amounts spent have held rather steady, but rising costs have meant an actual decline in work. Soviet military research, by contrast, appears to be on the increase. New Soviet work is extremely good in a wide variety of military-scientific-technical fields.

This U.S. decline had occurred in a period when science is opening so many new doors that breakthroughs can come at any time. The country which makes breakthroughs and exploits them quickly may be able to put itself in a highly superior military position.

By contrast, the country which moves too slowly in research and development and in exploiting research breakthroughs may find itself looking down the cannon's mouth.

These McNamara miscalculations have been so woven into the Pentagon structure by his far-reaching and minute reorganization programs that they will be very difficult to weed out.

McNamara's major mistake was the creation of a brain trust of theoreticians which now overlays the whole of the Defense Department operations.

These men so "massage" all new ideas as to slow the progress from research idea to adoption to construction to completion beyond all reason. With new concepts costing in the multibillions, it is, of course, sound practice to look at all new developments with cold factual objectivity. But overdiscussion may be more deadly for results even than jumping on a new idea without sufficient study. This is now believed to be the situation.

Research expenditures are the base on which U.S. defenses rest in this technical age. A cutback in research today doesn't weaken the United States much this year, next year or the year after. But several years of a research slowdown in the late 1960s may irreparably weaken this country defensively a decade from now now.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q — Is the room and board you receive as a camp counselor considered taxable income?

A — No, it is not as long as the room and board are furnished on your employer's premises and for his convenience. Acceptance of the lodging must be a condition of your employment.

Q — I just opened a savings account for my daughter. Should I use my social security to identify the account or do I have to use her number?

A — Use her number.

Q — I've heard that there's a tax advantage when you give shares of stock instead of money to a college. Why is that?

A — There is a tax advantage when a donation is made of stock that has increased in value since it was purchased. A tax deduction may be taken for the full market value of the stock on the date the donation was made.

Donations of this sort enable the taxpayer to avoid paying tax on the increase in the value of the stock and get an income tax deduction for it.

BRUCE BIOSSAT

Spiking Wallace

MIAMI BEACH (NEA) — The story behind the abortive revolt against Richard Nixon's choice of Gov. Spiro T. Agnew for the vice presidential nomination was this:

Many insiders among the Republicans were angered by the common knowledge that in recent months Agnew had undergone an evident "sea change" toward the conservative side of the subject of Negro riots and law and order.

Most GOP governors had heard Agnew rip apart the report on civil disorders by the Kerner Commission, in a closed session of the Governors' Conference at Cincinnati in late July.

They knew, too, that he had scolded a group of Negro leaders he called to his office after the riot in Baltimore which followed Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination.

But Nixon, the new presidential nominee, had this very sea change in Agnew very much in mind when he closeted himself alone to make his choice after long hours of discussion with Republican leaders.

The choice of Agnew represents Nixon's bet that the issue of "law and order," embracing as it does the rise in crime, Negro riots, campus disturbance and recurring turmoil in the streets, will be uppermost in U.S. voters' minds in the fall election. Most 1968 candidates for major office have ample evidence to support such a calculation.

In consequence of this, Nixon has also wagered that it is more important in 1968 to try to blunt the third party drive of former Alabama Gov. George Wallace, whose candidacy feeds on the law and order issue, than to appeal with main vigor to voters in the troubled core cities.

To the extent that this Nixon judgment led inescapably to a man with clearly conservative leanings, who might offset some of Wallace's strong pull in the South, the selection of Agnew could be portrayed as an appeasement of GOP leaders in that region.

That is indeed the critical view as expressed in the last convention hours. But the emphasis here was mostly an appeasement as reward to southern Republicans for backing Nixon and holding the line against the more favored Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Whatever the worth of that cynical appraisal, it is not the entire story. The Wallace threat is real, not only in the South but in the affluent suburbs and the blue-collar city areas of the North.

And with it, naturally, goes the danger that a strong Wallace showing countrywide could throw the 1968 election into the U.S. House of Representatives for lack of an electoral majority for either major party candidate. The nation could be in chaos for months.

Nixon has been tantalized by the conflict between the need to counter this danger and the need to make winning appeals to the turbulent core cities. As this reporter noted in an earlier column, it was plain that no matter how he resolved the matter his decision would seem wrong at least in part.

The naming of Agnew may in truth be reward for the South. But Nixon had to come down on one side or the other. His decision is also a hard judgment that law and order is the big thing in the suburbs and that in 1968 appealing to their swelling legions of voters is the way to blunt Wallace and win the election.

Oswald: "Your Dallas-based 'Orange Team' seems to be coming along mighty well."

Jim: "It isn't my team. It was organized by Ira Corn of Dallas in the hope that if a group of players worked steadily together they could develop unbeatable bidding methods. In furtherance of that idea Mike Lawrence has moved here from California, Bobby Wolff from San Antonio, Billy Eisenberg from New York and Bobby Goldman from Philadelphia. We haven't set the world on fire as yet but we are getting better and in our last two practice matches we have defeated a couple of very strong teams."

Oswald: "Lew Mathe's California team which you beat in June included Harold Guiver, Ron von der Porten, Don Krauss and Bob Hamman. Since four of that team have represented America in World's Championship play, you can't be accused of picking soft spots."

Jim: "Here is the first slam hand of the match. I was South and Bobby Wolff North."

Oswald: "It was not an easy slam to bid. You had to worry about your singleton spade and Bobby had only a singleton diamond. A lot of pairs might stop short of slam."

Jim: "They're far too good to miss a slam merely because of singletons. Both sides made seven because West had to protect both spades and hearts and let two clubs go, whereupon the club finesse brought in the whole suit."

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT BEGINS BILLION DOLLAR FIVE-YEAR PLAN

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — Missouri plans to spend almost a billion dollars in the next five years on highway right of ways and construction, according to a statement by chief engineer M.J. Snider of the State Highway Commission.

One of the first projects of the five year plan, which started July 1, is resumption of work on improving U.S. 71 from south of Harrisonville to the Arkansas state line. Work had stopped with the passage of the Missouri toll road law that would have provided a toll road in that area. In July, however, the Missouri Supreme court ruled the law unconstitutional on grounds that highway user funds could not be used for anything except construction and maintenance of free roads.

Other construction plans in the five year program cover the entire state and include all types of highways. Of the $1 billion, about $838,420,000 is earmarked for the interstate, primary and supplementary systems. Urban areas (areas with 5,000 or more population) will account for $157,514,000. The breakdown for the urban total is: $48,961,000 for the Kansas City area; $72,955,000 for the St. Louis area; and $35,618,000 for other urban areas.

Plans for the U.S. 71 project call for freeway standards with dual, divided lanes and limited access. Snider said work would be pushed on projects for which plans are nearer completion, such as the Butler and Nevada bypasses.

"Then we plan to concentrate on filling the gaps, working from the north to provide long stretches of completed roadway as soon as possible," Snider said.

LAKE AREA TO GET SPECIAL BOOST IN NEXT MONTH

Missouri's wonderful recreation area around the Lake of the Ozarks is going to be the subject of dozens of articles in sports and boating magazines, newspapers and trade journals within the next few weeks, following a visit to the area by 75 of the nation's top sports and boating writers.

The group was invited to enjoy two days on the lake to preview models of boats and motors. As part of the special showing, the writers test drove all the new boats, affording them a chance to view the lake and its many developments.

The writers were impressed with the new boats and motors, and doubly impressed with the beauty of the Missouri lake. It was the first visit for many, and most of them said they'd want to return with their families for personal vacations.

"It's truly a lovely place," commented E.T. Bales, veteran sports editor of the Chattanooga News-Free Press, "but there is one problem — accessibility. It took a combination of jets, prop planes and chartered busses to get us down here. There doesn't seem to be an easy way to do it."

The accessibility problem will not last much longer, though, according to Howard Maguire, engineer for the aviation department of the Division of Commerce and Industrial Development. An airport with facilities to accommodate all classes of medium-range aircraft, including DC-9s has been blueprinted and should be built within the next two years, depending on approval of federal funds which will aid in the construction. Also, highway work is now underway near the Bagnell Dam area to provide divided highway traveling from Jefferson City to the lake.

STATE'S "LAWNS" REQUIRE CONSTANT CARE BY CREWS

If you think your lawnmowing chores are a bother each week, think of the Missouri Highway Department and their job — caring for 32,000 miles of roadside greases, which requires 1,130 men and machines and a budget of at least $3 million.

Opposed to the old plan of mowing twice a year whether the right of ways needed it or not, the state is now mowing more scientifically, with special attention given to special areas such as the insides of curves and around signs, where driver vision is especially needed. Also, in urban and developed areas, mowing is more frequent and grass is cut shorter to blend with the lawns in towns.

The mowing operations are being coordinated with an effective herbicide and fertilizing program to not only improve the quality of desirable grasses and eliminate objectionable growth, but to keep the vegetation at a desirable height without as much mowing.

In addition, the department has experimented with honeysuckle and Crown Vetch, both vine-like plants which do not require mowing, and plans to plant them wherever possible to cut down on the annual job.

A Matter of Viewpoint

Former Alabama governor George Wallace is beginning to worry Democrats and Republicans alike the way he is winning friends and influencing voters with his no-nonsense promise to chastise the dissidents and restore respect for law and order in America.

Wallace, it will be remembered, was the man who once literally "stood in the school-house door" to defy the law of the land on the matter of integration and whose campaign speeches carry the implication that the order of the courts on the same issue will be ignored should he become president.

Law and order. Like beauty, its meaning is in the beholder whose eye is getting poked.

Same Old Fare Likely For Viewers

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Network television's new season holds out little promise as a period of stimulating innovation in broadcast entertainment, but it may go down in the books as a time when two minority groups—television minorities, anyway—receive some unusual if overdue attention.

The new interest in casting Negro performers as regular and temporary members of series' casts has been widely publicized. Negroes will star, co-star and be featured cast members in at least one-quarter of next season's shows, not even counting the 13 variety programs and all the movie reruns. Most dramatic series are planning episodes built around Negro guest stars, whether the programs are Westerns or situation comedies.

Less publicized but certainly new is the emergence of women as stars in a medium which over the years has used girls primarily to brighten up the screens, add mild love interest to stale plots and provide an excuse for publicity pictures of a type believed to be favored by magazine and newspaper picture editors.

In the forthcoming season, two women will have their own variety hours—Carol Burnett and Phyllis Diller, both funny but neither the femme fatale type.

Doris Day and Diahann Carroll, two puissant show-business and box-office names, will be starring in new situation comedies. They illustrate TV's new maturity kick since both will be playing widows with children. Lucille Ball, who after 16 years has got to be television's first lady, will also be around as usual, this time frankly over 35 because her own two teen-agers, Lucie and Desi Arnaz, will co-star as her kids.

Over the seasons, older women—that means anything over 25 in TV land—have been demonstrating their staying power while the pretty young things have been as dispensable as facial tissues.

Uncounted numbers of girls with names like Laurie, Lynn and Linda have come—and gone—from our screens. One comedy series, specializing in pretty girls, has had almost total overhauls of casting twice—and most of the show's fans never even realized it.

Yet Barbara Stanwyck, 61 and white-haired, just keeps rolling along that "Big Valley." It was originally intended to have Aunt Bea of "The Andy Griffith Show" return only occasionally to the new "Mayberry R.F.D." but the fan mail piled up so alarmingly that Frances Bavier, a warm, motherly type, will just transfer from Sheriff Andy's house and continue on housekeeper as usual, for Ken Berry, star of the new sequel to the old favorite.

Irene Ryan, "Beverly Hillsbillies" Granny, is hardly a contemporary sex symbol, but she just received a raise and a share of the show's residuals under a new contract. Eve Arden and Kaye Ballard playing "Mothers-in-law" with grown children are returning for a second season in a tough time spot that had spelled disaster for a succession of shows before that.

There are assorted reasons for television's continuing girl problem. One theory is that the audience likes its adventurous heroes to be fancy free, so the women can dream and the men can identify. Besides a steady girl friend is a nuisance in stories where the emphasis is on action.

Women, an important even dominating part of the television audience, are more likely to resent gorgeous young things but feel comfortable and unthreatened by comedienne or motherly types.

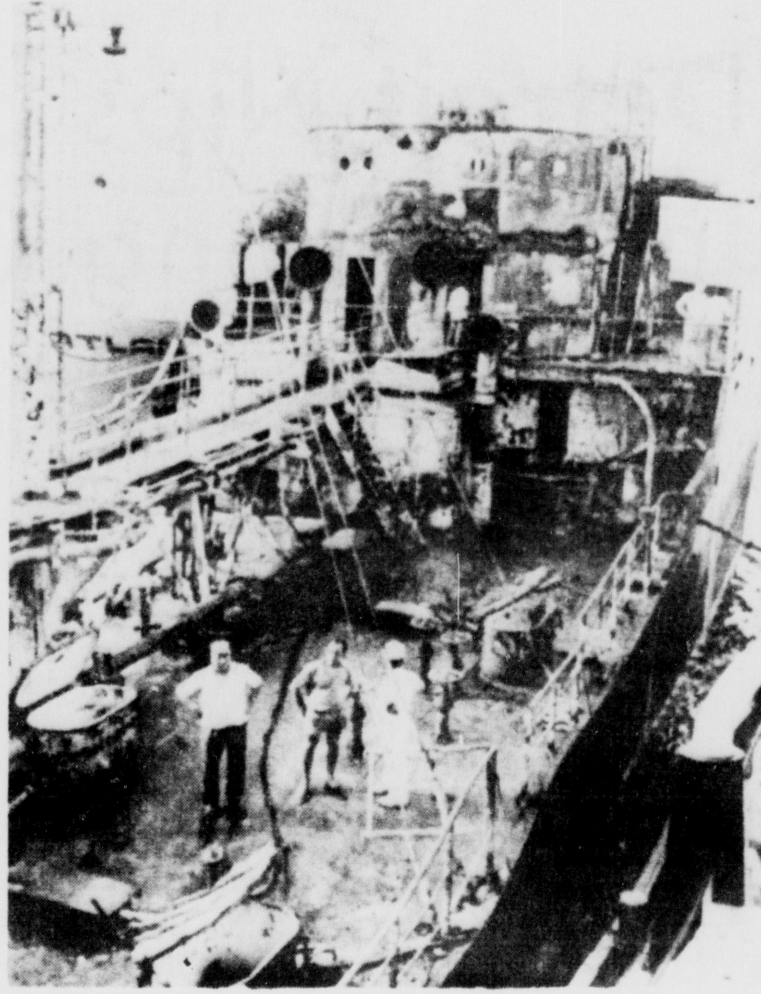

A beautiful but fading film star once confessed that if she had had it to do all over again, she would have started out as a character actress, "because it doesn't matter how old or wrinkled you get, you can keep working."

It is obvious that the addition of more help, the curtailment of trading hours, restrictions on advertising and similar measures cannot in themselves solve the problem. New techniques are needed.

This week the paper jam was revealed to have spread to at least one mutual fund, the one-year-old Mates Investment Fund, a sort of prodigy in that its shares have doubled in its lifetime. But success, as in the case of other prodigies, has been its most serious obstacle.

Mates got buried under so many orders this summer that it simply had to refuse any more. In addition, its records got snafued and now will have to be reconstructed.

Almost simultaneously, the Securities and Exchange Commission charged some officers of Pickard & Co., which is being liquidated after collapsing under the paper load, of record keeping that wasn't just poor but illegal as well.

Shortly after the SEC charge, the New York Stock Exchange suspended two senior officers of the company from doing business on the exchange, the severest punishment the Big Board can mete out to members. And more will be heard in this case.

But public announcements such as these seem only to be the peaks that pierce the ocean's surface, giving indication of a hidden, treacherous landscape below.

Fortune magazine reports that "after considerable probing," the exchange "acknowledged, with great reluctance, that at midyear 35 of their member firms—about 5 per cent of the total—were under special restrictions designed to prevent the sort of overload that did in Pickard."

It continued: "This would seem to imply that the 35 firms are 'mismanaged,' although no one at the exchange cares to put it that way."

Fortune notes also that, luckily, the breakdown in record keeping and in the delivery of stock certificates to purchasers has coincided with a period of rising or relatively stable stock prices. What, it asks, might happen in a bear market?

One possibility, should such a market develop, is that purchasers might renege on stock purchases. Regulations now call for payment of stock within a week after purchase.

However, if a purchaser for some reason has not received his bill or notification of purchase in that time—and if at the same time his stock has declined sharply in value—he might be tempted to refuse the order.

This would compound an already chaotic record-keeping situation and dump even more work upon already overworked staffs. It could mean also a long period of litigation.

The problem, of course, is said to be an avalanche of paperwork resulting from a boom in stock purchases. But it is more than that. It is a result also of niggardly attitudes and backward business practices and will take years to remedy.

Childhood Fantasies Come Even to Babies

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Fantasy starts early in human life. Researchers believe that many babies begin to have dreams within five hours after birth.

Does your mate snore? Snoring is so prevalent in Britain that a specialist estimates it threatens the marriages of 1.5 million couples in that country. He believes that about 50 per cent of snorers can be cured of their affliction and another 30 per cent helped by proper treatment.

Uncle Sam picks up the tab for the world's most expensively tailored clothes. They are the individually fitted 21-layer suits which U.S. astronauts will wear on projected flights to the moon. Although women generally brush their teeth more often than men, they are more likely than men to lose all their choppers. On the average, U.S. women have two more fillings or missing teeth than men. At any age they are also more likely to need eyeglasses. About 50 per cent of the female population wear them, only 43 per cent of the male population.

Marines Show Approval Of Miss America

TOKYO (AP) — The Marines whistled and applauded every number on the program Sunday as Debra Barnes of Moran, Kan., who wears the title of Miss America, headed a group of seven beauty queens who opened an 18-day tour of Japan and South Korea to entertain American troops.

During the performance at a theater in Iwakuni, Debra and the other girls went into the audience to select a partner and took them to the stage, where they taught the men a dance routine.

Miss America selected Lance Cpl. Frank Morrone of Philadelphia, Pa., as her partner.

The Marines waited at the theater for an hour and a half before the show was scheduled to start. Some over-eager Marines smashed a few glass doors in haste as they crowded into the theater.

Debra presented many Marines with her autographed photo and expressed disappointment that she couldn't find any Kansas boys among them.

Satellite In Wrong Orbit Now

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — America's Applications Technology Satellite 4 tumbled around earth in the wrong orbit today as space engineers attempted to salvage what they could from a $28 million mission spoiled by rocket failure.

Officials at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Goddard Space Flight center in Greenbelt, Md., said ATS 4 was cartwheeling at the rate of one revolution every 40 seconds and was still attached to the upper stage of its Atlas-Centaur booster rocket.

The drum-shaped satellite, packing a new weather-watching camera built to stalk storms in daylight or darkness, blasted into space Saturday aiming for an orbit that would keep it permanently positioned 22,300 miles over the equator west of South America.

En route, however, the Centaur upper stage of ATS 4's booster rocket failed to re-start a second time as planned and instead of drilling the satellite toward its lofty 22,300-mile high goal, left it stranded in a low orbit where cameras and communications experiments aboard the craft are useless.

NASA refused to speculate on why the failure occurred. Sources close to the investigation said engineers suspect something went wrong in the propellant system which feeds fuel into the Centaur engines. A pump used to build up pressure in the fuel tanks may have frozen, possibly because of a heating failure, they said. Without proper pressure in the fuel tanks, the engines would not start.

ATS 4 also did not separate from its 7,000-pound Centaur rocket as planned. With such a heavy weight on its tail, controlling the satellite will be difficult, if not impossible, officials said.

Project officials said the most that can probably be gained is engineering information that will tell whether satellite experiments survived the launch. Officials said ATS 4 cost about $15 million. Its Atlas-Centaur rocket was valued at another $13 million.

Eisenhower Making A Good Recovery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, nearing the end of a critical period of recovery after his sixth heart attack, continues to "show satisfactory improvement."

This was reported by doctors at Walter Reed Army Hospital in their daily bulletin Sunday.

The 77-year-old general of the Army suffered his latest attack last Tuesday while at Walter Reed recuperating from an earlier one.

Doctors generally believe the first week after a heart attack to be the most critical period.

Bodies of Two Young Women Are Located

WAMEGO, Kan. (AP) — The bodies of two unidentified young women tied together, were found in Pottawatomie County Lake No. 1 seven miles north of Wamego by fishermen Sunday.

Sheriff Dan Reves said an autopsy disclosed both had been shot to death with a .38 or .32 caliber weapon. There were no other signs of violence.

One appeared to be between 13 and 18 years old, and the other from 16 to 22, the sheriff said, and they apparently had been dead 24 to 48 hours.

They both were fully clothed and wore shoes. They were tied together at the legs with clothes-line.

The bodies were found 100 yards from shore by Glenn Lesslie and his grandson, Larry Matson, 12, both of Vermillion, Kan.

"We went fishing on the west side of the lake and got our hooks tangled up," Lesslie said. "We went out in a boat to loosen the lines, and as we went by I investigated a floating mass and found what I found."

The water was about 10 feet deep at the spot, Lesslie said there were no currents in the lake.

The Kansas Bureau of Investigation was called into the case. Seven members of the Manhattan rescue squad dragged the lake for clues without success.

Black Cloud Hovers Over Coach's Head

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

A black cloud hovered over the head of Joe Kuharich today and it will be some time before it leaves, but all is sunny for George Wilson, who sees even brighter skies ahead.

"I'm just a jinxed coach," moaned Kuharich, whose Philadelphia Eagles lost a National Football League exhibition to Detroit 20-3 Sunday and their No. 1 quarterback Norm Snead to a broken leg.

"The black clouds are right over the top of us but we can't jeopardize Snead's future. I'll go for the maximum knitting period."

Coach Wilson, on the other hand, was beaming after his Miami Dolphins tied Buffalo 28-28 in an American League contest and All-American fullback Larry Osonka climaxed his pro debut by scoring the tying touchdown in the final period.

"He made a few mistakes, but — and that's a big but — wait a few more weeks," Wilson said. "He'll really shake them up."

In Sunday's other pre-season game, Mike Clark kicked his third field goal of the game midway through the final period to give the Dallas Cowboys a 16-14 edge over San Francisco in the NFL.

On Saturday night in the NFL, the New York Giants shocked Green Bay 15-14 on Fran Tarkenton's four-yard touchdown pass to Joe Morrison with 14 seconds remaining. Charley Gogolak's 45-yard field goal with 16 seconds left gave Washington a 16-14 decision over Atlanta, and Baltimore blanked Chicago 10-0 on a Johnny Unitas touchdown pass and Lou Michaels' field goal.

In the AFL, Bob Humphreys booted a 33-yard field goal with five seconds left for Denver's 13-15 victory over Cincinnati, and Oakland bombed San Diego 31-7 as Daryle Lamonia hurled two scoring passes.

The Cincinnati Reds spent a long weekend trying to clip Phil Regan's wings, but neither bats nor fists could keep the Vulture from his appointed rounds.

Billy Williams' three-run inside-the-park homer in the 15th inning Sunday sent the Chicago Cubs past Cincinnati 8-5, giving relief ace Regan his second victory over the Reds in less than 24 hours.

But Regan, who has been preying on National League batters for three summers with Los Angeles and Chicago, had to work 7 2-3 innings — his longest stint since 1965 — before nailing the victory.

Saturday night the 31-year-old right-hander, survived a two-run home by Lee May and a scuffle with Pete Rose while subduing the Reds 8-5. Sunday he gave up a tying two-run homer to Johnny Bench in the eighth, then hurled six scoreless innings before giving way to a pinch hitter in the 15th.

After Williams' second homer of the game broke a 5-5 deadlock, Jack Lamabe mopped up the Reds, peeserving Regan's seventh straight victory and 10th in 12 decisions this year.

Los Angeles' Don Drysdale beat Philadelphia 1-0 for his fifth hit paced Atlanta to a 5-3 victory over first place St. Louis; San Francisco swept a twin bill from the New York Mets 2-1 and 5-0 behind southpaws Ray Sadecki and Mike McCormick, and Houston trimmed Pittsburgh 5-1 in other National League action.

In the American League, Detroit nipped Boston twice 5-4 in 14 innings and 6-5; Cleveland took a pair from Chicago 6-1 and 2-1; California riddled Baltimore 11-1; Minnesota crushed New York 11-2; and Oakland pounded Washington 8-3.

Regan, nicknamed the Vulture three years ago while running up a 14-1 record in relief for the Dodgers, made his 52nd appearance of the season Sunday, rescuing Ken Holtzman from a seventh inning jam when the Cubs ahead 5-3. He was tagged for Bench's 10th homer after an error by Ron Santo in the eighth, then blanked the Reds to two hits through the 14th.

Don Kessinger, who had five of the Cub's 14 hits, and Glenn Beckert singled in the 15th before Williams hit his 19th homer — a drive down the right field line that eluded May's bid for a shoe-top catch and rolled to the fence.

Williams poled a two-run homer and Ernie Banks clubbed his 21st of the season in the sixth.

Regan's slider — which opposing hitters suspect is akin to the spitball — made the Reds see red Saturday night. After May homered in the eighth, Regan hit Tony Perez with a pitch Cincinnati's Clay Carroll nicked Regan with a pitch in the ninth and Rose took a swing at him after grounding out to end the game.

The punch didn't last, and Regan took another decision in Sunday's 15-round rematch.

Drysdale scattered four hits, struck out eight and drove in the only run with a two-out single in the fourth while snapping a personal four-game losing string and bringing his record to 13-10. It was the big righthander's fourth 1-0 victory of the season, tying the club record previously shared by Nap Rucker, Johnny Podres and Sandy Koufax.

Keyes missed a field goal try from the 17.

San Francisco took a 14-10 lead into the final period, but sub quarterback Jerry Rhyme led Dallas into position for Clark's 28-yard field goal with 10:34 left. When the 49ers fumbled the following kickoff, Dallas recovered and Clark wrapped it up from the 26.

Tough To Come Out On Top With Nicklaus

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — When you're in a head-to-head duel with golfer Jack Nicklaus it's tough to come out on top.

Lee Elder, a 33-year-old 10-year pro playing his first season on the tour, will be the first to admit it.

"I gave it all I had but there isn't much you can do when you're up against the world's best," Elder said Sunday.

He made the observation after staging the battle of his life before losing on the fifth hole of a sudden death playoff in the $125,000 American Golf Classic.

The stirring struggle ended when Big Jack rolled in a 10-foot birdie putt to cop the $25,000 jackpot.

Nicklaus, who now has won back-to-back tournaments after a victory drought that lasted 9½ months, looked like he was human after all when he was in the bunker with his second shot on the second hole.

But the blond belter, needing a 30-foot putt after he blasted out to match Elder's par, promptly drilled it home.

Elder, the 1963 Negro golfer of the year from Washington, D.C., could have wrapped it up on the 18th hole of regulation play but he hit into two bunkers and took a bogey five.

Nicklaus, who birdied No. 18 with an eight-footer, had to wait out the finish and said "all I want is a playoff."

Frank Beard joined Nicklaus and Elder in the three-way playoff but dropped out after the first hole when he wasted his first two shots and parred the hole.

All had 72-hole totals of 280, even par for the distance. Nicklaus had a final 69, while Elder and Beard posted 70s.

Third-round leader Don Beis, a part-time tour player from Seattle, and Bert Yancey both missed chances to force a five-way playoff when they bogeyed their final hole.

Beis, who set the course record Saturday with a hot six-under 64, soared to a 75 while Yancey shot a 71. They finished in a four-way tie at 281 with Bob Stanton and PGA champion Julius Boros.

Finishing at 282 were Bob Lunn, George Knudson and Art Lunn while Gardner Dickinson, Ray Floyd and Rod Funseth closed at 283.

Arnold Palmer looked like he was ready to make one of his famous charges when he moved with a birdie on No. 11. But the fabled pro bogeyed Nos. 13 and

Detroit Nips Boston In Two Long Games

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

In this age of specialization, Detroit's Gates Brown has found his niche. His specialty is destroying the Boston Red Sox.

Brown did his thing twice Sunday as the Tigers stretched their American League lead to a fat seven games with a 5-4, 6-5 sweep over the Red Sox.

In the first game, Brown tagged a 14th inning pinch homer for the winning run. It was his fourth pinch hitting appearance against Boston this season and his third homer. The other time he only doubled.

In the nightcap, Detroit Manager Mayo Smith played unfairly, inserting Brown in the starting line-up. Sure enough, Gates delivered ninth inning single that climaxed a four-run rally and gave the Tigers the sweep.

For the season, Brown has seven hits in 10 swings against Boston. You might say the Red Sox' book on him is somewhat incomplete.

Elsewhere, Minnesota walloped the New York Yankees 11-2. California rocked Baltimore 11-1. Oakland whipped Washington 8-3 and Cleveland swept a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 6-1 and 2-1.

In the National League, San Francisco swept a doubleheader from the New York Mets 2-1 and 5-0, the Chicago Cubs dumped Cincinnati 8-5 in 15 innings, Los Angeles blanked Philadelphia 1-0, Atlanta took St. Louis 5-3 and Houston tripped Pittsburgh 5-1.

Brown, who batted only 91 times last season and has been to the plate just 52 times this season, connected against reliever Lee Stange in the first game and made a winner of Mickey Lolich.

It was the second straight relief victory over the Red Sox for Lolich, who worked five scoreless innings.

Before Brown connected, Wayne Comer and Bill Freehan had homered, helping the Tigers wipe out Boston's early bulge. Joe Foy and Dalton Jones had tagged two-run homers for the Red Sox.

Two Reggie Smith homers had helped Boston to a 5-2 lead in the second game before the Tigers rallied in the ninth. Jim Price walked and moved up on Freehan's single. Then consecutive singles by Dick McAuliffe, Mickey Stanley and Al Kaline tied the score and set the stage for Brown, who singled the winner across through the drawn infield.

Rick Reichardt drove in six runs with a bases-loaded triple and two singles as the Angels blitzed Baltimore.

Tom Satriano had five hits including a homer and two doubles and Vic Davalillo had four hits for the Angels. Jim McGlothlin rode the heavy support to his seventh victory.

Minnesota's Dean Chance had the same kind of hitting support with the Twins battering four Yankee pitchers for 16 hits. Rod Carew had four singles and Tony Oliva four runs batted in on a single and a three-run homer. Chance pitched a four-hitter for his 11th victory.

Dick Green, Reggie Jackson and Joe Keough all powered two-run homers to ease the Athletics past the Senators. Jim Nash allowed only one hit after the second inning and won his 10th game.

Stan Williams pitched a four-hitter and Russ Snyder's pinch single drove in a pair of runs as the Indians took the first game from Chicago.

Cleveland completed the sweep with 6-23 innings of two-hit relief by Ed Fisher saving the second game. Fisher rescued Sam McDowell from a bases-loaded one-out jam in the third inning, using just two pitches to retire Ken Berry and Gerry McNertney, and held Chicago the rest of the way.

National Congress Playoffs

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Lubbock, Tex., dropped Liberal, Kan., into the losers' bracket of the National Baseball Congress Tournament Sunday, beating the Kansas 5-3 on the strong relief pitching of David Yates.

Liberal, the Kansas champion, had a rally started in the fifth inning and had pushed across two runs when Yates came on. He slammed the door, allowing only one hit the rest of the way.

Slater, Iowa, beat Albuquerque, N.M., 3-0; Staunton, Ind., defeated Huntsville, Ala., 7-1 in seven innings; Fargo, N.D., trimmed Lawton, Okla., 2-0, and Mexico, Mo., eliminated Ralston, Neb., 4-1.

Rusty Newman pitched a two-hitter for Mexico, struck out 11 and walked three. He pitched for the Warrensburg State Mules last spring and was second in strikeouts in the NAIA.

Five games were booked for today. They were:

11:30 a.m. CST — Jackson, Miss., vs. Albuquerque loser out.

2 p.m. — Little Rock, Ark., vs. Slater, Iowa.

5:15 p.m. — Lenoir, N.C., vs. Ocala, Fla.

8 p.m. — Wichita Cessna vs. Mesa, Ariz.

10 p.m. — Lawton, Okla. vs. Huntsville, Ala. loser out.

Sedalia's Still In Winners Bracket

ASHLAND, Kan. (AP) — Wellington, Kan., will meet Sedalia, tonight in the finals of the Midwest Regional Babe Ruth Baseball Tournament, which was moved to Ashland Sunday because of rain at Wellington.

By beating Sedalia 3-2 in the winners' bracket Sunday, Wellington remained the only undefeated team, and a victory tonight will wrap up the title. If Sedalia wins tonight, a second game will be required.

In other Sunday games, Indianola, Iowa, eliminated Tri-County of Kansas 5-4, and Sedalia knocked out Indianola 7-4.

POLLY'S POINTERS

They Propound Solutions For Puckerless Sleeves

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Like Mrs. H. T., I also make quite a few of my clothes. I have found that if you sew up the shoulder seams, then sew in the sleeves, leaving the underarm open, the sleeves will go in with a professional look. Then, continue with the side seams.—MRS. B. E. N.

DEAR POLLY—I have help for Mrs. H. T., who has problems with puckers where she puts sleeves in homemade dresses. First, the armhole should not be stay-stitched as is so often recommended on a pattern. The ease-line should be stitched loosely along the top and a bit tighter on each side below. Ease in the fullness only on the sides of the sleeve cap. The one or two inches across the top will not ease because the fabric is not on the bias. After careful pinning on the sleeve side of the seam, stitch along the ease-line using it as a guide. Pins must be perpendicular to the seam line and no more than 3/4-inch apart. Hold the seam on each side of the presser foot (front and back) and stretch the seam as you sew. This helps keep it flat and pulls out any tucks. Stitch over the pins, but if you stitch slowly nothing is harmed.—MRS. C. H. B.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—When I upset a skillet of bacon grease on the kitchen floor, I grabbed a kitchen terry towel to wipe it up. I washed this towel with the rest of my towels. Now they have a funny odor of grease even after repeated washings. Can something be done to take this smell out of my towels?—MRS. E. S.

DEAR POLLY—I have a Pointer for a unique wedding gift. As a special little gift for my first daughter-in-law I bought a small photo album (about 5x7) and placed in it pictures of my son from the time he was a baby until he had finished school. The book was given to her at the rehearsal dinner party and she just loves it. The next son asked for one for his bride, and now my daughter tells me she also wants one when the time comes. This small gift brought a lot of fun and seemed to be really appreciated.—M. R.

Ryun Wins Battle

WALNUT, Calif. (AP) — America's world record miler Jim Ryun has won his battle against the strength-sapping blood disease mononucleosis and will be ready for the Olympics.

In his first competitive mile race since being stopped by the ailment this spring, the 20-year-old Kansas star sped to a timing of 3 minutes 55.9 seconds to win the pre-Olympic meet at Mt. San Antonio on Saturday.

Loyalists Challenge Democrats

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A "loyalist" delegation of 22 Negroes and 22 whites has been formed to challenge the seating of Mississippi's regular party delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

The loyalists are certain of the support of the party's three presidential hopefuls, two of whom sent representatives to the convention.

The issue of racial balance was vital in the selection of the members of the delegation, chosen Sunday at a state convention.

The challengers, calling themselves the Loyal Democrats of Mississippi, claim that the regular Democratic delegation denied the state's Negro population a fair representation, and that the regulars plan to reject the Democratic nominee in favor of Alabama's George C. Wallace, running as a third party candidate.

The regular Democrats named three Negroes among its 46 delegates. Two resigned to join the loyalists.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., representing Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, told 500 convention delegates and 1,000 visitors, "the vice president of the United States has authorized me to tell you this—he supports your challenge."

Mondale said he will convey Humphrey's support of the challenge to the national convention's credential committee. He said the committee will meet next week in Chicago.

Speaking for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., Percy Sutton, president of New York City's borough of Manhattan, said if the challenge is approved it would inspire the nation.

two-time winner of the tournament, will team this time with Springfield's Bruce Hollowell.

Top Amateurs Are Entered In Tourney

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Several top amateurs, including NCAA champion Grier Jones of Wichita and Oklahoma State, are in the field of 100 teams here for the Heart of America 4-ball Invitational Golf Tournament starting Tuesday.

Jones won't compete in the first round because of the Porter Cup matches in Buffalo and a Tuesday night dinner in New York honoring the nation's top amateurs. His partner, Jim Bullard of Arkansas City, Kan., will play alone in the first round.

After Tuesday's second round the top 31 teams will join the defending champs, Dave Dennis and Don Dancer of Independence, Kan. Double rounds of match play are set for Thursday and Friday with the 36-hole final Saturday at Oakwood Country Club.

The current Kansas amateur champ, Mike Krone of Lawrence, will team with John Wooden of Lawrence. Kansas City's Tom Watson, the Missouri amateur champ, will team with Dave Newquist of Kansas City, runner-up to Watson in the state tourney.

Bob Leeper of Manhattan, Kan., runner-up in his state tourney, will team with Gary Johnson. Both attend Kansas State. Krone attends Kansas and Watson will be a sophomore at Stanford.

Should Be Improvement In Detroit Injury List

DETROIT (AP) — If the Detroit Lions can stay free of the kind of injuries that plagued the club last season, there should be an improvement in this year's record, says Coach Joe Schmidt.

"We should be a better ball club," Schmidt contends, watching newly acquired quarterback Bill Munson take command in a practice session.

Munson, after four years with the Los Angeles Rams, joined Detroit a few weeks ago in a deal which cost the Lions three players and a high draft choice. Schmidt gave up quarterback Milt Plum, halfback Tommy Watkins and flanker Pat Studstill in the trade.

With a won-lost-tied record last year of 5-7-2, the Lions were desperate. They had to do something and acquisition of a hotshot quarterback seemed to be one of the team's most pressing needs.

But not even a Munson will be able to help the club if it suffers another series of injuries. Unfortunately, the injuries already are piling up.

Defensive end John Baker, a 10-year veteran acquired from Pittsburgh, is out for six weeks with a broken arm sustained in a 13-9 loss to the Buffalo Bills in an exhibition game. Veteran guard John Gordy, who led the player revolt for higher pensions, will miss half a season because of knee surgery.

Nick Eddy, former Notre Dame star who missed his rookie year with a knee operation last fall, aggravated the injury in a scrimmage and is suffering from a slight case of water on the knee. Munson himself missed the first two weeks of training camp with a minor elbow injury.

But Schmidt plans to start the campaign with Munson at quarterback. Eddy and Mel Paul Naumoff, Mike Lucci and Wayne Walker are the starting linebackers with Barney and Dick Lebeau the cornerbacks. Tommy Vaughn and gutty Bruce Maher will share the safety slots.

With Studstill, one of the league's top punters gone, the kicking job will probably go to Jerry Depoyster, who set several field goal records at Wyoming last year. Wayne Walker probably will be the reserve placekicker with Garo Yepremian, a soccer style kicking specialist, most likely being cut from the squad.

Kansas City Chiefs Take On Cardinals

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas City will take on the tough St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League here Saturday night without Curtis McClinton, one of the best all-around fullbacks in pro ball.

The 6-foot-3, 232-pound former Kansas star fractured a cheek bone in Kansas City's 13-10 victory over the NFL Minnesota Vikings Saturday night, before 46,228 at Minneapolis.

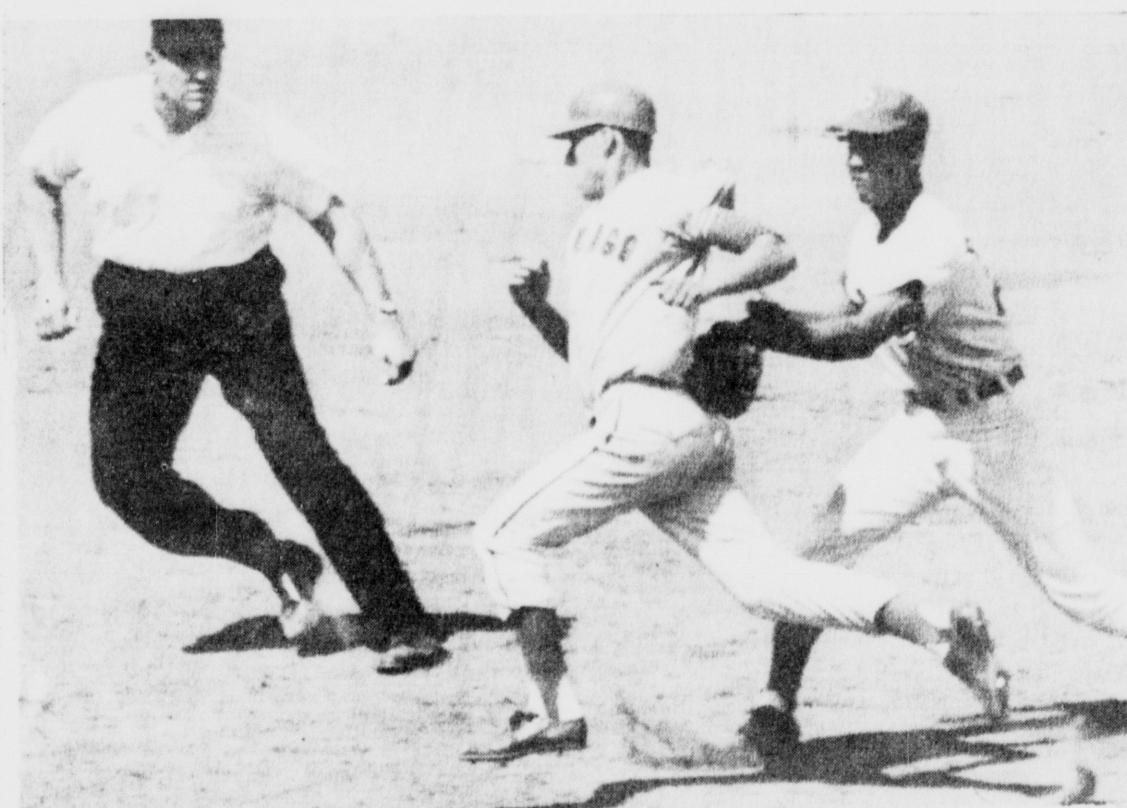

McClinton is an outstanding blocker, runner and pass receiver. He will miss the last three exhibition games with St. Louis, Oakland and Los Angeles. Wendell Hayes, obtained from Denver in a winter trade, is an excellent runner, but McClinton's blocking and pass receiving will be missed.

Coach Hank Stram is determined to keep his squad from reaching an emotional peak for any game. He calls the St. Louis game "just another game." But he admits the old relaxed exhibition game is no more.

It's bound to be something more than that to the fans. A sellout of 49,002 is likely. The Cards looked good in a 24-7 victory over Pittsburgh. They are anxious to prove last year's squad dissension is a thing of the past. And NFL-AFL rivalry is still a factor.

Stram was kidded by quarterback Len Dawson after the bruising Minnesota game.

The other Chief regulars also played most of the way. Mike Garrett carried 26 times for 90 yards. Jan Stenerud kicked a 15-yard field goal to win it with 47 seconds left and a 29-yarder for

Jaster Gets Back In Mound Rotation

CHICAGO (AP) — Larry Jaster gets back in the pitching rotation today for the St. Louis Cardinals after missing a turn because of his recent mediocre performances.

Jaster 8-7 pitches against the second-place Chicago Cubs' Bill Hands 13-6. That's right, the second-place Cubs. And the Cubs almost have to take three of the four games with the Cardinals if they are going to make any bid to overhaul the National League leaders. Chicago trails the Redbirds by 14 games.

The Atlanta Braves tired it and couldn't do it. The Braves did beat the Cardinals 5-3 Sunday, but it was the only game of the three-game series they took.

Pat Jarvis 11-9 went most of the way for the Braves. He was relieved in the ninth innings when the Cardinals scored their last run of the game.

The Cardinals had taken a quick lead on Mike Shannon's 14th homer of the season, a solo shot in the second inning. But Jarvis held on and the Braves put him ahead with five runs in the fourth inning.

Bob Tillman, who was placed in the lineup for ailing catcher Joe Torre started loser Steve Carlton's downfall with a one-out single. After a walk and an out, Felipe Alou singled in a run with one of his three hits.

Felix Millan, who had a five-for-five day at the plate, doubled in another run.

An intentional walk loaded the bases and Don Johnson unloaded a two-run single. That was it for Carlton 11-17. Bob Johnson singled in the last run with a hit off Reliever Wayne Granger.

The Cardinals added a run in

Big Names Test Age Handicap

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Four big names in golf, past and present, will test the handicap of age today.

Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus will be matched against the Gold Dust Twins of the 1940s, Byron Nelson and Jung McSpaden, in an 18-hole contest.

The match will be on McSpaden's new course, Dub's Dread, which was rated by a national golf magazine last year as the toughest in the country. It can be stretched to 8,100 yards.

McSpaden figured out a new method of handicapping. He is 60 years old, Nelson 56. That totals 116. Nicklaus is 28. Palmer 38, totaling 66 years. Sixty-six from 116 is 50 years total difference.

So the oldtimers will tee off 50 yards in front of Niklaus and Palmer on each hole. That will be their only advantage.

Because of turf conditions, Nicklaus and Palmer will cover 7,846 yards. Nelson and McSpaden 6,946 yards. The long hitters will face some tough par 3 holes — No. 16, for instance is 268 yards over water all the way.

Hibbard Shares In Prize Money

KNOXVILLE, Iowa (AP) — Kansas City drivers won a major share of the prize money Saturday night in the eighth national supermodified auto championships at the Marion County Fairgrounds.

Ray Lee Goodwin, Kansas City, took the $3,000 top prize and added $290 in lap earnings. He led from the second lap in the 30-lap event.

Other finishers included: 5. Gene Gennetten, Kansas City, $700.
6. Dick Sutcliffe, Kansas City, $600.
7. Bob Williams, Kansas City, $500.

8. Jay Woodside, Kansas City, $400.
9. Roy Hibbard, Marshall, Mo., $300.

Requiem Mass Tuesday For Moon Mullins

CHICAGO (AP) — A requiem mass will be said at 11 a.m. Tuesday at Assumption Church for Laurence Moon Mullins, former backfield coach at the University of Kansas who died of cancer Saturday night at his home here.

Mullins, who also coached football at St. Benedict's College in Atchison, Kan., played for the Notre Dame football teams in 1928, 1929 and 1930, the last teams coached by Knute Rockne who died in a plane crash in Kansas in 1931.

Mullins, 60, coached at several universities after his graduation and also was athletic director at Marquette for five years before taking the job as president of the Athletic Institute in Chicago.

Foot Injury Brings Financial Pain

By ED SCHUYLER JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

Dark Mirage's foot injury is expected to trouble the sensational 3-year-old filly, but it certainly has caused financial pain to jockey Manny Ycaza.

Ycaza, Dark Mirage's regular rider, said he would be aboard her for the Alabama at Saratoga last Saturday instead of riding Damascus in the William duPont Jr. Handicap at Delaware Park. Braulio Baeza got the mount on Damascus.

Then Dark Mirage bruised the outside of her right forefoot last Thursday and was not entered in the Alabama, which she was expected to win easily.

So, Ycaza got the call to ride Robert J. Kleberg's Heartland in the same race.

Heartland finished first in the $56,800, 1 1/4-mile test but was disqualified and placed second behind Meadow Stable's Gay Matelda.

Damascus finished first in the $53,700, 1 1/16-mile duPont, and Mrs. Edith Bancroft's great 4-year-old stayed first.

Heartland crossed the finish two lengths in front of Gay Matelda. However, the stewards ruled Ycaza and Heartland interfered with Gay Matelda and John L. Rotz during the stretch run. The time was 2:04.25.

James R. Chapman's Out The Window captured the $46,000 Laurence Armour Handicap at Arlington Park when he charged between horses to beat Trefle by three-quarters of a length, with Nashua Pilot another length back.

Friendship 7, Col. Glenn's space craft, is now in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C.

'Localism' Plan Finds Dissenter

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A report prepared by a member of the St. Louis comptroller's office has faulted Missouri Governor Warren E. Hearnes' so-called "creative localism" plan.

The report entitled "The Urban Fiscal Crisis — the St. Louis Perspective" was written by Richard Meadows. It is to be used as a fact book by Missouri urban mayors who are trying to get a revenue sharing plan passed by the legislature.

St. Louis was called "a frugal city" in the report. The report noted that St. Louis spent about five per cent less than cities of comparable size, but had one of the highest per capita tax collections among those cities.

It was pointed out that the tax burden is twice as heavy on the city as it is on residents of St. Louis County.

"What does this mean to St. Louis?" the report asked. "In the case of the city it has been shown that an unfavorable differential exists and the reasoning must follow that to continue to raise taxes and charges, unless they are raised in equal proportion in the county, will probably result in accelerated flow of businesses and individuals to the county."

The 40-page report suggested as alternatives an increased state income tax or the assumption of some of the fiscal responsibility by the state for health and hospitals.

World News Capsules

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — Kidnapers have released Ulises Pereira Reverbel, presidential adviser whose abduction touched off police raids on the national university, student riots to protest the raids and the biggest manhunt in Uruguayan history.

Pereira was left dragged in a car on a street corner Sunday. He staggered to a house and asked Mrs. Graciela Perez to call the police.

Mrs. Perez said Pereira, who heads the state telephone and power monopoly, looked "tired and very dirty." He told her his captors "treated me well but would not let me sleep."

His abductors, reported to be members of a pro-Peking group called Tupamaro said they "arrested" Pereira for urging President Jorge Pacheco Areco to take a tough line during recent labor trouble. They also demanded reversal of Pacheco's austerity policy, but the president refused to negotiate with the kidnapers.

HONG KONG (AP) — Four persons from the British diplomatic mission in Peking arrived in Hong Kong Sunday en route home and went into seclusion.

Immigration Director W. E. Collard said they were R. A. Webb, a clerical officer, and his wife, G. J. Mather of the diplomatic wireless service, and E. C. Humphreys, a security guard.

Government officials said newsmen would not be allowed to talk to them.

They were granted exit visas two weeks ago after waiting several months for them. The British charge d'affaires in Peking, Sir Donald Hopson, also applied for permission to leave but this has not been granted yet. Exit visas for the British have been curtailed since Red Guards sacked the mission last Aug. 22 in protest against the suppression of Communist riots in Hong Kong.

SANTA NINFA, Sicily (AP) — Thousands of inhabitants of this wrecked town blocked traffic again Sunday to demand permanent housing to replace the homes they lost in the earthquake last Jan. 12.

Most of the 1,800 families of Santa Ninfa are still living in tents or temporary barracks. They claim that more than $70 million in relief funds has been mismanaged.

Swarming onto the main road through town, the demonstrators blocked all traffic for eight hours. They vowed to keep repeating the demonstration, which began about six months ago. Relief work has been delayed by red tape.

Outlines Way For Entrance Of Dissidents

ST. LOUIS (AP) — International Vice President Harold Gibbons of the Teamsters union said Sunday a dissident labor group called TEAM can affiliate with the Teamsters only if TEAM wins a representation election at the McDonnell Douglas plant in St. Louis.

Gibbons made the statement at a meeting of TEAM, which stands for Technical Employees of Aerospace Manufacturers. About 2,500 members of the group voted to affiliate with the Teamsters if TEAM wins bargaining certification.

District Lodge 837 of the International Association of Machinists now holds the bargaining certificate. The contract between the IAM and the 20,000 workers at McDonnell expires Nov. 3. Both TEAM and the United Auto Workers have petitioned the National Labor Relations Board for a representation election.

Agnew's Career Reflects Changes

By JOHN WOODFIELD
Associated Press Writer
ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Gov. Spiro "Ted" Agnew of Maryland, the Republican vice presidential nominee, has changed his political thinking over the years.

The 49-year-old candidate switched from the Democrats to the GOP in post-World War II days. In the past six months, he has gone through a re-evaluation period which he changed from moderate to conservative, from Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to Richard M. Nixon, and from a position as an emphatic noncandidate to the second spot on the Republican ticket.

Agnew has more than two years remaining of his four-year gubernatorial term. He swept past Democrat George P. Mahoney in 1966 by nearly 100,000 votes on a liberal platform that included an open-occupancy plank.

The liberal stance was not new to the son of a Greek immigrant whose father changed his name from Anagnostopoulos. It was during his administration as Baltimore County executive that the county became one of the first in the country to enact a law banning racial discrimination in public accommodations.

"Let's keep Maryland in the mainstream of America," he asked voters during his successful bid for governor in 1966, as he called Mahoney a "bigot, racist, incompetent, menace to Maryland."

Mahoney campaigned on a platform deploring crime in the streets and with a slogan "Your home is your castle, protect it."

But Agnew's political posture changed slowly but radically in the last six months, although he told reporters shortly before leaving for Miami Beach, "I haven't changed."

"I'm standing still; it's just that others are moving more to the left," he said.

The switch became evident last April when Agnew rebuked Baltimore Negro leaders following the riots touched off by the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Agnew charged that they stood silent while outside militants fanned the flames of insurrection.

"And you ran. You agreed . . . that you would not openly criticize any black spokesman, regardless of the content of his remarks. You were beguiled by the rationalization of unity; you were intimidated by veiled threats; you were stung by insinuations that you were Mr. Charlie's boy, by epithets like 'Uncle Tom'."

"Somewhere the objectives of the civil rights movement have been obscured in a surge of emotional oversimplification. Somewhere the goal of equal opportunity has been replaced by the goal of instantaneous economic equality."

"The fiction that Negroes lack any opportunity in this country is dispelled by the status of those of you in this room," the governor told them.

Half of them stalked angrily from the meeting. All condemned the speech, but letters poured in by the thousands praising the governor.

And just a week ago, at his last news conference before leaving for Miami Beach, he said that police should not hesitate to shoot looters who will not surrender.

"If the general public gets used to the idea that as long as you can out-leg a police officer you can get away scot-free, the whole system of law and order will break down," he said.

Agnew, one of the earliest advocates of Rockefeller's candidacy for the GOP nomination, began to re-evaluate that position in late March.

Obviously disenchanted by the New York governor's on-again, off-again statements on his candidacy and privately miffed because Rockefeller did not let him know in advance of his March 21 news conference that he would again disavow any interest in the presidential nomination, Agnew began leaning more and more toward Nixon.

"He may—just may—be my number two choice for the Republican presidential nomination," he said in early April.

He hastened to add, however, that "I still think Gov. Rockefeller is the best candidate the Republican party can offer the electorate in November. But having someone who is not willing to become a candidate be the best candidate is no way to elect anybody. So I'm in the process of revising and waiting and watching to see what's going to happen."

He denied reports that he was playing politics, with possibly the vice presidency or a Cabinet post as his goal.

In an interview with The Associated Press during the Republican State Convention that named him as a favorite-son candidate, the Maryland governor said he would not "under any circumstances" leave his present office "until at least after the 2½ years remaining in my term of office have expired."

But he indicated privately that changing events might change his mind.

Covered Bridges Star At Two Festivals

By JIM CROSSLEY

For those who stalk and cherish them, all covered bridges this month lead to Rutland, Vt. The Second New England Covered Bridge Festival is being held there, Aug. 11-13.

At this event the fabled National Society for the Preservation of Covered Bridges, Inc., will surface and its officers, including the editor of its sprightly quarterly journal, Covered Bridge Topics, Leo Litwin, will be present to greet all the CB fans and talk shop.

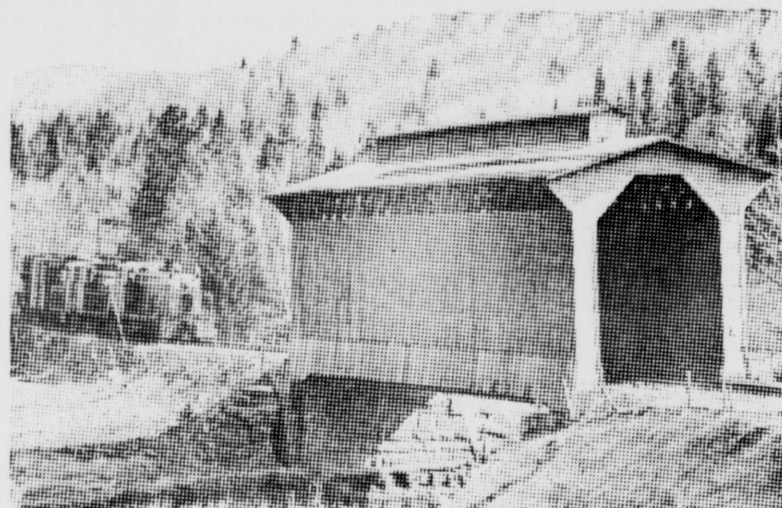

Included in the attractions are tours of many of the 105 historic bridges in the state, slide shows, photo contests, a church supper and a band concert.

The climax comes with an inspection of the construction work being done for a new bridge to be erected at Woodstock Village, Vt.

Akin to archeology, the covered-bridge hobby is basically a dig. In this case, however, odd and fascinating facts of the past are unearthed instead of relics.

It is important, for example, that trusswork for the Woodstock Village bridge is the first authentic Town Lattice design in New England since 1889.

If the New England shindig is missed, bridges or just people who savor Americana—needn't count the year lost. There's another covered-bridge festival, the 12th annual for Parke County, Ind., Oct. 11 to 20.

Unusual covered bridge near St. Johnsbury, Vt., has been saved for the future. Public donations of $14,000 will pay the extra cost of placing new steel spans inside the bridge. This is one of only 18 railroad covered bridges in the country and Vermont's last. Twelve are in Oregon and Washington, five in New Hampshire.

Each year the town of Rockville, Ind., near Turkey Run State Park, embarks robustly on a great week of sightseeing, country eating and nostalgic fun. Citizens dress in old-time costumes; handicrafts and antiques are on display in the town square. The rarest of rare back-country delicacies, corn cob jelly, is available there. Farms color up the countryside for the entertainment of those who take bus tours of the bridges with a unique scarecrow contest. And the Ritz Theater (admission 50 cents) puts on programs of silent movies every night.

Why Rockville, Ind.? Parke County's 38 covered bridges are the largest number of any county in the nation. In bridge statistics, Indiana ranks third among all the states with 128 bridges, behind Ohio's 202 and Pennsylvania's 247.

In the nation, there are about 1,500 still standing. The preservation effort isn't wasted. They're dwindling. Arsonists, floods, overloaded trucks and porcupines who love to chew the timbers for the tracked-on road salt are the chief depredators.

Topeka Firms Are Damaged

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Two fire-bombing incidents caused an estimated $9,185 damage to two business establishments in west central Topeka overnight Sunday.

One of the gasoline fire-bombs was thrown into Graces Caravan Club where Gov. Robert Docking is reported to have scheduled a reception tonight for visiting Uruguayan press representatives.

The resulting fire caused $6,500 damage to the building and $2,500 damage to the contents, firemen estimated.

A second fire bomb was tossed into the Snyder Tea Shop. Quick action by firemen held damage to $185.

Two other bombs failed to go off, police said. One was thrown at a barber shop, and the other at a cleaning shop next door.

Nothing moves troops like The Daily Bugle.

The sound of a powerful ad opens up people's eyes. And minds. It stirs them. Starts them marching in to buy your product. And often at less cost-per-thousand to you than any other person-to-person message.

(The Classified Section is one example.) Remember how disappointed you were the day you called on that Want Ad, and found out the item had just been sold?

Print bugles like that. Sharp and clear. Which is just the call to action you need when your adversary is public inertia. And it generally is. Newspapers. Magazines. Brochures. Mailings. These are all print. And they all work to muster the troops. Use them. It'll be a monumental campaign. General.
